France Awaits DeGaulle Report

PARIS (AP) — Bristling with security forces, France and Algeria waited tensely for President Charles de Gaulle's report tonight over radio and television on his progress toward ending the seven-year rebellion in the North African territory.

Thousands of riot police, 32 tanks, 100 squad cars and light armored vehicles waited on the alert on the outskirts of Paris. Troops took strategic positions in key Algerian cities to counter the threat of an uprising by the underground Secret Army Organization of Europeans fighting to keep Algeria French.

For days high sources have leaked the word that secret negotiations between De Gaulle and the Algerian rebels toward a cease-fire are well advanced. Few observers, however, believed that the time had arrived when the French president, who has dedicated himself to settling the rebellion, could announce a peace settlement.

De Gaulle is a leader who keeps his own counsel. But there was growing speculation that he would express guarded optimism about the prospects for an Algerian settlement.

He is also expected to denounce the rightist Secret Army and make another rallying call for support by declaring his Fifth Republic, which grew out of the Algerian crisis, has brought the country stability and prosperity.

Leaders of the Algerian rebel government were meeting in Tunis to study reports of its emissaries who have been holding secret sessions with the French on a cease-fire and steps toward independence after 131 years of French rule.

Should the rebel hierarchy approve the broad lines of a settlement reportedly reached by negotiators, final approval must still be given by the National Revolutionary Council which serves as a rebel parliament.

There were reports that should the rebel leaders turn down the cease-fire terms reportedly agreed on at the negotiating level, De Gaulle will go ahead without them to set up a provisional regime to chart Algeria's road to independence.

College Aid Bill Awaits Senate Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two of President Kennedy's important legislative proposals—the college education aid measure and an employee pension-welfare fund regulation bill—come up for Senate action this week.

Senate leaders hope to put both of them through before an informal Lincoln's Birthday recess begins on Thursday. This will continue into the middle of next week to allow Republican orators to make speeches over the country.

The House also plans to pass an identical pension-welfare bill this week.

There is likely to be a wide difference between the House and Senate college measures, however. The final version will have to be worked out in conference.

The House last Tuesday passed a $1.5-billion measure limited to funds for construction of classrooms, laboratories and libraries.

The Senate started debate Friday on a much broader $2.674,000,000 bill, with voting scheduled to start today. Amendments are likely to delay a final vote until Tuesday.

The bill contains not only $1.5 billion in construction loan funds, but also $924 million for students' scholarships and $250 million for grants to help build public community junior colleges.

The pension-welfare bill seeks to put teeth into enforcement of the 1958 law aimed at prevention of abuses in administration of plans which now contain almost $60 billion of assets.

Woman Crawls Hours in Brush

POMEROY, Ohio (AP)—A 40-year-old woman spent 14 and a half hours crawling through underbrush from her wrecked car to the highway.

Mrs. Mildred Dill of Racine, Meigs County, told emergency squadmen today her car left Ohio 124 between Syracuse and Pomeroy about 7 p.m. Sunday night and landed in a hidden ravine. She said she crawled through a rear window of the automobile and inched her way through the underbrush.

Two motorists, Mr. and Mrs. Don Stobart of nearby Antiquity, found her lying on the highway at 9:30 this morning. Mrs. Dill was taken to Holzer Hospital in Gallipolis with chest and face injuries and a leg fracture.

Boys, 12 and 14, Save Brothers from Creek

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Heroes came in all sizes. John Truitt, 14, and Charles Kelly, 12, rescued Thomas Millowicki, 6, and his brother, John, 4, from Ridley Creek Sunday after the brothers had fallen through ice into four feet of water.

VIOLENCE ERUPTS; PARIS POISED — Wreckage litters the apartment of Gaston Defferre, Senator and Mayor of Marseilles, after a plastic bomb exploded in his quarters. In the wake of this and similar incidents attributed to the OAS, the European terrorist organization, the heaviest security concentration since World War II — 28,000 troops — guards Paris on the eve of President Charles de Gaulle's nationwide radio-TV address. Many fear that any hint by de Gaulle that he is about to make peace with the Algerian Moslem rebels will touch off violence by the OAS, an organization pledged to keep Algeria French.

Flu, Virus Absent List Shows Decline

Heavy absences caused by flu and virus in Circleville and county schools showed a decrease today, according to school officials.

Logan Elm Schools, closed Friday, were back in session today. Absentees also were less in all but one Circleville school. All city schools, reporting 587 out Friday, listed 529 absent today. Only one CHS teacher was absent today. Five were out Friday.

Superintendent George Hartman said Atwater School reported its highest absent list today at 112. He said all other grade schools showed an improvement.

PICKAWAY School, a part of the Logan Elm District, listed 53 absentees today. About 87 were out of class Thursday.

County Superintendent George McDowell said a total of 297 did not report for classes today at Teays Valley. This represents 15.2 per cent of the entire student body.

Hospital Built By Laughter To Aid Kiddies

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A $6-million hospital that laughter built settles back to medical routine today after a gala opening sprinkled with tears.

St. Jude Research Hospital for Children was formally dedicated Sunday by the man who founded it — television comedian Danny Thomas.

After four years of playing benefit performances and sparking fund drives for St. Jude's, Danny figures there is still a long way to go.

Thomas said he and his wife, Rosemary, will fly from here to Tampa, Fla., where he plans to help set up a teen-agers march to raise more cash for his pet projects.

The American Lebanese Syrian Associated Charities, founded by Thomas to pay the hospital's annual expenses, hopes to have teen-ager marches in nearly 100 cities before the year is out.

The comedian, an American of Lebanese extraction and a devout Roman Catholic, said marches would be held in Tampa, St. Petersburg and Miami Beach during February.

St. Jude's, a star-shaped structure, cost $3.5 million to build. Land, equipment and other costs added $2.5 million. It is non-sectarian.

The hospital's research will aim at finding a cure for leukemia and catastrophic children's diseases. Treatment will be free.

'Doomsday Weekend' Passes sans Calamity

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Serpent Rahu had his fun but the world—beset as it may be with earthly troubles—was still intact today.

"Doomsday weekend" passed without the horrible calamities predicted by Hindu soothsayers that sent millions of frightened Indian and Nepalese believers to prayer meetings.

absences in Teays Valley were: Ashville 72 for 15 per cent, Walnut 58 for 10 per cent, Scioto 105 for 20 per cent, Duvall 23 for 15 per cent, Madison 22 for 23 per cent and South Bloomfield 17 for 20 per cent.

In the Westfall District, William-sport reported 21 per cent absences, Atlanta 18 per cent and Monroe 14 per cent.

Indonesian Students Rip Down U.S. Flag

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—An Indonesian student mob attacked the U.S. Embassy and ripped down an American flag today because a Dutch troop plane was allowed to refuel on U.S. territory en route to West New Guinea.

U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones protested the mob attack to the Indonesian Foreign Ministry.

One embassy official, Miss Mary Manchester, a personnel officer, was injured. Several others in the embassy were hit by flying glass.

Shouting and singing, about 100 students believed to be from the student organization dominated by the Communists, hurled stones and sticks at the embassy and smashed windows of automobiles in the compound.

A U.S. decision to close its airfields to the Dutch troop planes was communicated to the Dutch Foreign Ministry by the American ambassador to The Hague, John Rice, a diplomatic source said.

He reported that Rice told State Secretary Hans van Houten the U.S. permission was granted only for a flight last Friday and that landing rights would not be extended for a second chartered flight that had been scheduled for today.

Solon Opposes Trade with Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—The export of U.S. machinery to the Soviet Union is helping the communist drive to overtake the United States' economy, Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, said today.

The Commerce Department, he said, authorized export of $500,000 worth of pulp mill equipment to Russia. He said this has the potential of adding to U.S. unemployment and "sustaining the economy of the enemy."

Harsha called on the Commerce Department to rescind such export licenses "to stop this threat before it gets out of hand."

Moon Expert Has Trouble With Tomcat

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — Walter Burton, scientist, has his roving tomcat under lock and key today. With a sigh of relief, he is going back to his space-age job of tracking U.S. satellites in the sky.

Thorny, the cat, finally came home Sunday after more than a week in which Burton discovered he was a lot more skilled at tracking satellites than at tracking felines gone astray.

Now that Thorny's back, Burton can (1) move with his family to his new job at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Maryland and (2) get his mind wholly on his business for the first time since Jan. 27.

That's when Thorny, a gray 7-year-old, escaped into the snow as Burton was packing to leave Hampton with his wife and two children for their new home in Bowie, Md.

Burton is coordinator of satellite tracking at Goddard Space Flight Center. He held the same job with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration here until the project was transferred.

Burton vowed the family never would leave Hampton until Thorny was present or accounted for. He launched a frantic search.

They had handbills printed proclaiming the cat's disappearance, and they were out distributing some of them when Thorny meandered back home. A neighbor saw him first.

The Burtons hurried home and promptly locked Thorny up.

"He was my wife's pet, at first, but he's grown on me," said Burton. "We just couldn't give up on him and leave."

Cuba Tells U.N. Group U.S. Uses 'Blackmail'

Medical Society Is Opposed to Federal Plan

The Pickaway County Medical Society has gone on record as opposing all compulsory government medical care programs.

The society's resolution, adopted here by unanimous vote, noted that the local medical group would not implement such legislation even if it is passed.

The Pickaway County unit referred specifically to House Resolution 4222 which would increase the social security tax to provide compulsory medical care for designated recipients.

Reasons listed for the action were:

THERE is pending in the 87th U. S. Congress, House Resolution 4222, which would increase the Social Security tax to provide compulsory medical care for OASDI recipients.

This costly government medical program would provide benefits, regardless of need, and

The utilization of existing public assistance programs will meet the needs of those unable to pay for medical care.

The high health standards of the United States would be placed in jeopardy by this politically controlled and socialistic plan.

A governmental program like H. R. 4222, the King-Anderson Bill, might destroy our voluntary health insurance plans which are now covering an overwhelming majority of our citizens.

Any form of socialism which threatens one segment of our American life and private enterprise, threatens the whole nation.

13 Missionaries Flee Congo Area

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Thirteen American missionary women and children have been evacuated from the Presbyterian mission at Bibanga in south Kasai, scene of new military tensions caused by insubordinate Congolese troops, consular officials announced today.

The missionaries were flown out last week after a U.N. rescue plane was seized and its crew held for three hours by Baluba tribal gendarmes loyal to their native chief, Albert Kalonji, now under arrest by the Leopoldville central government.

Husbands of three of the women remained at the mission.

Jap Leftists Gripe to RFK

TOKYO (AP)—Three Japanese Communist groups delivered protests today for U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The Japanese Reds, told Kennedy's schedule was tight, obligingly delivered their written protests against "oppression of American Communists" to a minor official of the U.S. Embassy.

David Osborn, U.S. Embassy first secretary, said the attorney general hadn't seen the protests. "They haven't been translated yet so we don't know exactly what they say," Osborn said.

Although Japan's leftists have announced no plans for demonstrations against Kennedy's visit, reports circulated that leftist students were planning a demonstration Thursday at Waseda University, where Kennedy is scheduled to meet student groups. One official of the Kennedy welcoming committee said a special police escort had not been arranged.

Kennedy met Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda today and assured him that future U.S. economic policy under his brother's direction will not neglect Japan.

Economic issues that have caused some grumbling in Japan came up in the first official call of the U. S. attorney general's six-day visit to Japan.

David Osborn, U.S. Embassy first secretary, said the proposed 8½-cent a pound surcharge on the cotton content of textiles the United States imports was stressed in Kennedy's talk with Ikeda.

Kennedy assured Ikeda that the trend in U.S. policy is definitely toward lowering tariffs, Osborn said.

Kennedy also told Ikeda that President Kennedy's intention to seek closer ties with the European Economic Community does not mean that Japan will be frozen out of the lucrative American market.

Kennedy told the Japanese leader the United States is seeking favorable trade treatment of Japan as well as itself in the EEC.

Kennedy To Press For Development Of 'Moon' System

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is expected to tell Congress Wednesday he wants to see several commercial firms take part in development of a worldwide communications satellite system.

The President was prepared to register his opposition to domination of the proposed system by any one company, informed sources said.

Kennedy's special message on communications satellites was expected to clarify the government's position on ownership and participation in the proposed system.

Kennedy had proposed last year that the United States launch such a system and make its facilities available to the world. He also suggested that private enterprise own the U.S. share and that other countries be invited to invest in the system.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr, chairman of the Senate Space Committee, introduced a bill last month proposing establishment of a $500 million corporation to push development of global space communications.

The Federal Communications Commission has under consideration a plan to let a nonprofit firm develop and operate the system for international telephone calls and eventually for international television.

This has involved a hot dispute with the communications industry and the government over whether such a system should be a private enterprise or a public undertaking.

Meanwhile, the American moon rocket program may help in the development of a satellite inspector that would investigate suspicious space objects.

The job of designing, making and testing a satellite inspector is under way. A contract was issued almost a year ago.

Last week, in a message to Congress on space activities, President Kennedy said the Defense Department and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration "are closely coordinating efforts" in the program.

NASA's Ranger rocket program has several features that seem adaptable to the effort to create an inspector satellite, which would cruise in the vicinity of an unidentified and suspicious satellite and send back reports.

Even though the Ranger rocket fired today the moon last month missed its mark by thousands of miles, the Ranger's space vehicle demonstrated to some extent the ability to change direction in space. This is vital for a satellite inspector vehicle.

In a broad sense, the moon

rocket has the same mission as an inspector satellite: To rendezvous with a satellite. The Ranger also has a TV-transmission system that the inspector could use to relay, robot-fashion, a report on what it sees.

Supplemental data, possibly provided by electronic probing and relayed back by radio, might be needed to report on whether the suspected satellite was on a reconnaissance mission or carried a weapon that could be fired at earth targets.

In his message on space Kennedy said a satellite inspection program would provide the United States "in the near future" with the means to investigate suspicious space objects. He did not define the reference to the near future.

U.S. Evangelist Praised in Ecuador

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Billy Graham's crusade in this predominantly Roman Catholic country has won high praise for "benefiting all — Catholic, Protestants and non-Christians."

The praise for the American evangelist came from former President Galo Plaza Lasso, who told newsmen Sunday, "Dr. Graham is considered a spiritual leader who can explain to the people in words they can understand their fears, their hopes and the problems of the world."

The American evangelist, a Baptist, has been drawing big crowds to his meetings, including a large number of Indians. A Protestant spokesman said the 6,000 who nearly packed the city coliseum Saturday night were nearly three times the number of Protestants living in Quito.

Indian airlines operated one flight to Bombay without a single passenger. Other planes in the area flew almost empty.

Katmandu, capital of Nepal, looked like a ghost town except around the Hindu temples. All shops were closed and streets deserted. Fearful of earthquakes that would bring their homes tumbling down on them, thousands of Nepalese took shelter in tents.

Teams of foreign scientists gathered at Lae, on the east coast of New Guinea, and a Japanese team reported complete success in observing the eclipse.

In Ahmedabad, capital of Gujarat, about 300,000 Hindus attended propitiatory fire sacrifices conducted by 1,200 Brahmin priests.

Dogs barked, roosters crowed and native papuans on the island hid in their huts until the sun shone again.

The path of the eclipse lay over the South Pacific, and New Guinea was plunged into darkness.

"It was so dark I could not see the numbers of my camera," said

J'm Huxley, editor of the New Guinea Times.

Wall Street Probe Readied

WASHINGTON (AP)—A prominent Wall Street figure closely associated with the New York Stock Exchange is expected to be the first target of a federal drive against alleged tax evaders in the securities field.

Informal sources said Sunday the case involves allegations of criminal tax fraud and would produce a sensation in financial and business circles.

If the government adheres to its tentative timetable, it was learned, evidence will be presented to a federal grand jury in New York City later this week. A final decision was being delayed pending a special meeting of federal prosecutors later today.

Informants said at least a dozen tax fraud cases, including this one, were being developed against brokers, underwriters, stock manipulators, "boiler room operators" and Wall Street lawyers.

They said the intensive work in the securities area was similar to past income tax crackdowns which have involved physicians, headwaiters, morticians, lawyers, small businessmen and even tugboat captains.

Some sources said that if the case of the New York Stock Exchange figure reaches the courts, it might well be the most sensational one to involve a Wall Streeter since Richard Whitney, the former president of the "Big Board," was sent to Sing Sing for grand larceny in 1938.

It was understood that the Justice Department and the Internal Revenue Service have developed allegations that the individual involved understated his income and inflated claimed deductions for contributions to charities and philanthropies.

The original evidence in many of the pending cases was uncovered by the Securities and Exchange Commission. The widely varied inquiries involve allegations that two Wall Street lawyers failed to file tax returns, that a broker did not report his full business and personal income, that an underwriter wrote of large expenses he did not incur, and that several brokers claimed fictitious travel and entertainment expense deductions.

Congo Chieftain To Lunch with JFK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy welcomes Premier Cyrille Adoula of the Congo to Washington today with a luncheon at the White House.

Adoula is assured of a friendly reception on his unofficial visit. His success in prevailing over extremists of the left and right in the Congo has surpassed the highest U.S. hopes.

It is not likely the 38-year-old moderate Congolese leader will be promised any new U.S. aid while visiting here. However, informants said, plans are afoot to extend further economic assistance to his country through the United Nations.

Adoula conferred with Valerian Zorin, the Soviet Union's delegate Sunday in New York. A spokesman for Adoula said later that Zorin had requested another meeting with the premier when he returns to the city.

Indonesian Students Rip Down U.S. Flag

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—An Indonesian student mob attacked the U.S. Embassy and ripped down an American flag today because a Dutch troop plane was allowed to refuel on U.S. territory en route to West New Guinea.

U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones protested the mob attack to the Indonesian Foreign Ministry.

One embassy official, Miss Mary Manchester, a personnel officer, was injured. Several others in the embassy were hit by flying glass.

Shouting and singing, about 100 students believed to be from the student organization dominated by the Communists, hurled stones and sticks at the embassy and smashed windows of automobiles in the compound.

A U.S. decision to close its airfields to the Dutch troop planes was communicated to the Dutch Foreign Ministry by the American ambassador to The Hague, John Rice, a diplomatic source said.

He reported that Rice told State Secretary Hans van Houten the U.S. permission was granted only for a flight last Friday and that landing rights would not be extended for a second chartered flight that had been scheduled for today.

Solon Opposes Trade with Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—The export of U.S. machinery to the Soviet Union is helping the communist drive to overtake the United States' economy, Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, said today.

The Commerce Department, he said, authorized export of $500,000 worth of pulp mill equipment to Russia. He said this has the potential of adding to U.S. unemployment and "sustaining the economy of the enemy."

Harsha called on the Commerce Department to rescind such export licenses "to stop this threat before it gets out of hand."

'Doomsday Weekend' Passes sans Calamity

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—eclipse lasting about three minutes.

Hindu astrologers had predicted great calamities when six planets—Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Earth—moved into conjunction with each other and the sun and the moon over the weekend. It happens only every century or two.

For astronomers it was an intriguing scientific phenomenon but for millions who believe in the influence of the stars it was frightening. Some feared the worst may still come.

Keith Robertson, director of Britain's 1,000-member Aetherius Society, spent a cold and rainy night with scores of his followers atop a mountain praying.

The path of the eclipse lay over the South Pacific, and New Guinea was plunged into darkness.

"It was so dark I could not see the numbers of my camera," said

Medical Society Is Opposed to Federal Plan

The Pickaway County Medical Society has gone on record as opposing all compulsory government medical care programs.

The Society's resolution, adopted here by unanimous vote, noted that the local medical group would not implement such legislation even if it is passed.

The Pickaway County unit referred specifically to House Resolution 4222 which would increase the social security tax to provide compulsory medical care for designated recipients.

Reasons listed for the action were:

THERE is pending in the 87th U. S. Congress, House Resolution 4222, which would increase the Social Security tax to provide compulsory medical care for OASDI recipients.

This costly government medical program would provide benefits, regardless of need, and

The utilization of existing public assistance programs will meet the needs of those unable to pay for medical care.

The high health standards of the United States would be placed in jeopardy by this politically controlled and socialistic plan.

A governmental program like H. R. 4222, the King-Anderson Bill, might destroy our voluntary health insurance plans which are now covering an overwhelming majority of our citizens.

Any form of socialism which threatens one segment of our American life and private enterprise, threatens the whole nation.

Moon Expert Has Trouble With Tomcat

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — Walter Burton, scientist, has his roving tomcat under lock and key today.

With a sigh of relief, he is going back to his space-age job of tracking U.S. satellites in the sky.

Thorny, the cat, finally came home Sunday after more than a week in which Burton discovered he was a lot more skilled at tracking satellites than at tracking felines gone astray.

Now that Thorny's back, Burton can (1) move with his family to his new job at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Maryland and (2) get his mind wholly on his business for the first time since Jan. 27.

That's when Thorny, a gray 7-year-old, escaped into the snow as Burton was packing to leave Hampton with his wife and two children for their new home in Bowie, Md.

Burton is coordinator of satellite tracking at Goddard Space Flight Center. He held the same job with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration here until the project was transferred.

Burton vowed the family never would leave Hampton until Thorny was present or accounted for. He launched a frantic search.

They had handbills printed proclaiming the cat's disappearance, and they were out distributing some of them when Thorny meandered back home. A neighbor saw him first.

The Burtons hurried home and promptly locked Thorny up.

"He was my wife's pet, at first, but he's grown on me," said Burton. "We just couldn't give up on him and leave."

Kennedy To Press For Development Of 'Moon' System

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy is expected to tell Congress Wednesday he wants to see several commercial firms take part in development of a worldwide communications satellite system.

The President was prepared to register his opposition to domination of the proposed system by any one company, informed sources said.

Kennedy's special message on communications satellites was expected to clarify the government's position on ownership and participation in the proposed system.

Kennedy had proposed last year that the United States launch such a system and make its facilities available to the world. He also suggested that private enterprise own the U.S. share and that other countries be invited to invest in the system.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr, chairman of the Senate Space Committee, introduced a bill last month proposing establishment of a $500 million corporation to push development of global space communications.

The Federal Communications Commission has under consideration a plan to let a nonprofit firm develop and operate the system for international telephone calls and eventually for international television.

This has involved a hot dispute with the communications industry and the government over whether such a system should be a private enterprise or a public undertaking.

Meanwhile, the American moon rocket program may help in the development of a satellite inspector that would investigate suspicious space objects.

The job of designing, making and testing a satellite inspector is under way. A contract was issued almost a year ago.

Last week, in a message to Congress on space activities, President Kennedy said the Defense Department and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration "are closely coordinating efforts" in the program.

NASA's Ranger rocket program has several features that seem adaptable to the effort to create an inspector satellite, which would cruise in the vicinity of an unidentified and suspicious satellite and send back reports.

Even though the Ranger rocket fired toward the moon last month missed its mark by thousands of miles, the Ranger's space vehicle demonstrated to some extent the ability to change direction in space. This is vital for a satellite inspector vehicle.

In a broad sense, the moon

rocket has the same mission as an inspector satellite: To rendezvous with a satellite. The Ranger also has a TV-transmission system that the inspector could use to relay, robot-fashion, a report on what it sees.

Supplemental data, possibly provided by electronic probing and relayed back by radio, might be needed to report on whether the suspected satellite was on a reconnaissance mission or carried a weapon that could be fired at earth targets.

In his message on space Kennedy said a satellite inspection program would provide the United States "in the near future" with the means to investigate suspicious space objects. He did not define the reference to the near future.

OAS Action Is Denounced

Havana Envoy Claims Violation of Charter

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Cuba today denounced the recent anti-Castro action of the Organization of American States (OAS) as a flagrant violation of the U.N. charter obtained by U.S. blackmail and pressure.

Cuban delegate Mario Garcia-Inchausti also accused the Kennedy administration of pushing plans for a "new aggression" against the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

He called for U.N. action to curb "these interferences" and "these aggressions against our people."

Garcia told the General Assembly's 104-nation Political Committee the United States went to the OAS conference at Punta Del Este, Uruguay, to try to liquidate all possibility of negotiating a settlement with the Castro government.

The United States, he said, went to the conference "carrying a bag of gold in one hand and a dagger — a bloody dagger in the other."

The efforts of President Kennedy to isolate Cuba from the rest of the Western Hemisphere, Garcia declared, have "carried economic aggression to its highest point."

Garcia again assailed U.S. occupation of the Guantanamo Naval Base in Cuba as illegal and declared that the base is being used for anti-Cuban purposes.

The Cuban delegation was backing a Communist resolution appealing to the United States to end "interference in the internal affairs" of Cuba and "actions directed against the territorial integrity and political independence of Cuba."

The resolution, which Czechoslovakia and Romania introduced, called on the Cuban and U.S. governments to "settle their differences by peaceful means, through negotiations, without recourse to use of force."

U.S. chief delegate Adlai E. Stevenson was expected to address the 104-nation committee Tuesday. His delegation contended that the assembly should not take any action on the Cuban complaint.

Committee chairman Mario Amadeo of Argentina aimed to steer the committee to a final vote within 10 days. The Czechoslovak-Romanian resolution seemed unlikely to pass. Some diplomats believed some African, Asian or middle-of-the-road Latin American country might introduce a milder substitute with a better chance of getting by.

Sunday, Cuban Premier Fidel Castro brushed off expulsion of his regime by the Inter-American system and predicted his kind of revolution would sweep Latin America "like a march of giants."

A throng of Cubans jamming Jos Marti Plaza roared approval as the bearded prime minister assailed President Kennedy as hypocritical and impudent for banning imports from Cuba. U.S. officials in Washington said the ban, chiefly affecting tobacco, will deprive Castro's regime of $35 million a year.

Castro shouted his defiance of the Organization of American States for its 14-1 vote at Punta Del Este, Uruguay, last week to oust Cuba from the hemisphere family of nations until it breaks ties with the Communist bloc.

U.S. Evangelist Praised in Ecuador

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Billy Graham's crusade in this predominantly Roman Catholic country has won high praise for "benefiting all — Catholic, Protestants and non-Christians."

The praise for the American evangelist came from former President Galo Plaza Lasso, who told newsmen Sunday, "Dr. Graham is considered a spiritual leader who can explain to the people in words they can understand their fears, their hopes and the problems of the world."

The American evangelist, a Baptist, has been drawing big crowds to his meetings, including a large number of Indians. A Protestant spokesman said the 6,000 who nearly packed the city coliseum Saturday night were nearly three times the number of Protestants living in Quito.

MANILA (AP) — William E. Stevenson, former president of Oberlin College in Ohio, presented his credentials as U.S. ambassador to the Philippines today to President Diosdado Macapagal.

Stevenson was escorted by Baluba tribal gendarmes loyal to their native chief, Albert Kalonji, now under arrest by the Leopoldville central government.

Husbands of three of the women remained at the mission.

Driver Handed Stiff Penalty In Court Here

Norman E. Lee, Lockbourne Air Force Base, was handed stern sentences in Circleville Municipal Court today for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicants and driving when his license was under revocation.

Lee, cited into the local court for the third time for OMVI and twice for driving under revocation, was fined a total of $700 and costs, sentenced to 180 days in jail and received a further suspension of his driving rights. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Lee's convictions here all have come about since 1959, according to court records. His latest arrest was by Glenn Clay, Ashville Marshal.

Frank A. Noggle, 58, Route 2, Ashville, also was cited into the local court for driving under the influence. Arrested by the State Highway Patrol, he was fined $150 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and had his operator's license suspended for six months.

Six nations abstained.

Castro's 2-hour, 40-minute speech came on the eve of a debate in the U.N. political committee on a Communist-sponsored resolution charging the United States is planning aggression against Cuba and meddling in her affairs.

As the crowd gathered for Castro's speech, Soviet Premier Khrushchev messaged a reiteration of Russian support for the Cuban revolution.

"The people of the Soviet Union are always with you, dear Cuban brothers," Khrushchev said. "A growing militant movement of solidarity in all parts of the globe will help the Cuban people frustrate the evil plans of the U.S. imperialists and their hirelings."

Castro followed a similar line. "Revolution is inevitable," he said. "It is determined by the conditions of misery in which man lives in Latin America."

The United States, he said, took a major beating at the Punta del Este conference of Inter-American foreign ministers which ended last Saturday. He said only the U.S. "ministry of colonies" (meaning the 13 anti-Cuban nations) went along with the Kennedy administration's move to get a unanimous Latin-American vote to throw Cuba out of the OAS.

County Share Of Funds Near $2½ Million

Pickaway County received $2,484,904 out of a record 1.6 billion dollars paid out by the state of Ohio during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1961, according to the annual report of the State Auditor's Office.

This does not include any of the expenditures for highways by the state highway department, wildlife and conservation, rents, leases, salaries and wages paid in the county by the state.

This represents the total of money distributed to the county out of the gasoline, sales and intangible taxes, auto license fees, in school foundation payment, old age pensions, poor relief, aid for dependent children and other welfare programs.

Distributions of funds in Pickaway county by the state were as follows: Shared revenues, $919,763; Local assistance subsidies — public welfare, $265,022; State assistance subsidies — public welfare, $576,202; local assistance subsidies — education, $723,915.

Astronaut Prefers Stress Be Put on Science Aspects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. told President Kennedy today he wished newsmen would concentrate on scientific aspects of his projected flight into space rather than his personal life.

Glenn, whose attempts to orbit the globe in a space capsule has been postponed until Feb. 13 at the earliest, visited Kennedy at the White House and had, he told reporters afterward, "a very pleasant morning."

He was accompanied by Lt. Col. John Powers, Project Mercury information officer.

Glenn told the President newsman, in effect were bringing out the "Walter Mitty" in the public — a hidden desire to live the spectacular experience of an astronaut. Mitty was a fictional character who fancied himself in assorted heroic roles. Mitty was created by the late James Thurber.

Kennedy sympathized a bit with Glenn, saying he was aware of the problem but noting also that it put a human stamp on Project Mercury.

Glenn was besieged by reporters and photographers at his home in nearby Arlington, Va., last Saturday.

In his conversation with Kennedy, the astronaut said he didn't mind the attention at all but the emphasis was on the wrong points.

Glenn said he and Powers had discussed their concern about diverting their attention to the science behind the program to orbit a man in space.

"We don't know how to get them to concentrate on the scientific aspects," Glenn said. Newsmen, he added, appear to be more interested in such personal items as "how Annie (Mrs. Glenn) is getting her hair fixed."

Glenn's 15-minute visit was his second call on Kennedy. He and other Project Mercury astronauts chatted with the President the day Washington gave Alan B. Shepard Jr., America's first man to complete a suborbital flight, a rousing welcome last May.

On leaving the White House, Glenn and Powers walked past a group of pickets protesting nuclear tests. Neither — and the pickets obviously did not recognize the astronaut.

DIXON changed his plea of innocent to guilty on a reduced charge of assault and battery. According to court records, Dixon's daughter married since the incident and refused to testify. The charge was reduced to assault and battery.

William Salyers, indicted by the January 1961 session of the Pickaway County Grand Jury, was placed on three years probation by Judge Ammer on an indictment for pointing a firearm at another person. Salyers pleaded guilty to charges.

Reece Davis, London, received an 18-month probationary period for carrying a concealed weapon. Davis was indicted by the January 1962 Grand Jury.

3 More Cabin Thefts Probed

Three more owners of cottages along Darby Creek during the weekend reported thefts of articles from their properties.

Three men apprehended early last week by the sheriff's department are suspected of the cabin thefts. At least five cottage owners along Darby have reported entries since the trio was apprehended.

Owners reporting thefts Saturday and Sunday were Walter Garner, 235 Sunset Drive, and Delbert Smith and C. A. Williams, both of Columbus. Paul Sheets of Harrisburg and John McGee of Orient had reported entries earlier.

The three men being held here are brothers Michael and Jerry Monst and Dillard L. Tigner, all of the Orient area. They have been bound to the Pickaway County Grand Jury.

Sheriff Walton W. Spangler today said other cabins in the Darby Creek area may have been entered. He said it would be wise for all owners to check their cottages.

Two Are Sentenced For Battery Theft

Two New Holland area men were fined and sentenced in Circleville Municipal Court Saturday on charges of taking six batteries from the Robert Mace farm near New Holland.

Appearing for preliminary hearings were Carl Law and Martin McDaniel. The affidavits were filed by Deputy Sheriff Gene Kerns.

Law was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 90 days in jail. McDaniel was fined $50 and costs and sentenced 30 days.

The court suspended both jail terms and imposed probation for two years. Judge Sterling M. Lamb also ordered the accused to make restitution for the batteries within 15 days.

U.S. Helicopters Help Viet Nam

Air Raid Scatters Communist Force

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. helicopter company airlifted Vietnamese troops on a raid Sunday to wipe out a strong Viet Cong Communist force based at Hung My, a village near the southern tip of South Viet Nam. Most of the quarry escaped.

Three rebels were captured. A large supply of medicine, 10 pounds of documents and some homemade arms were seized.

But the great majority of the village garrison — about 130 guerrilla troops — fled from freshly dug foxholes into the nearby bamboo groves as the fleet of U.S. copters roared down on them.

Of the 15 helicopters involved, one was downed and another was hit by parting fire. None of the Americans and Vietnamese aboard was injured.

The airborne assault force, moved into the attack in three successive waves, totaled one battalion of Vietnamese infantry and a company of rangers — perhaps 500 men.

Only women, children and two old men occupied the village by the time the copter fleet last touched down and three Vietnamese army units, each with American military advisers, closed in.

Lt. Col. Robert B. Olson of Dallas, Tex., one of the advisers, commented that, "Limited as we were in men, machines and communications, we just could not close that ring tight enough."

Women who emerged from the grass huts, some with naked babies in their arms, gave questioners little information about the strength and whereabouts of the guerrillas, and much of what they did say was conflicting.

"You can't really blame them," said Maj. David Gallier of Washington, D.C. "If these women talk today, they'll probably die tomorrow."

Driver Handed OAS Action Stiff Penalty In Court Here

Norman E. Lee, Lockbourne Air Force Base, was handed stern sentences in Circleville Municipal Court today for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicants and driving when his license was under revocation.

Lee, cited into the local court for the third time for OMVI and twice for driving under revocation, was fined a total of $700 and costs, sentenced to 180 days in jail and received a further suspension of his driving rights. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Lee's convictions here all have come about since 1959, according to court records. His latest arrest was by Glenn Clay, Ashville Marshal.

Frank A. Noggle, 58, Route 2, Ashville, also was cited into the local court for driving under the influence. Arrested by the State Highway Patrol, he was fined $150 and costs, sentenced to three days in jail and had his operator's license suspended for six months.

Astronaut Prefers Stress Be Put on Science Aspects

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. told President Kennedy today he wished newsmen would concentrate on scientific aspects of his projected flight into space rather than his personal life.

Glenn, whose attempts to orbit the globe in a space capsule has been postponed until Feb. 13 at the earliest, visited Kennedy at the White House and had, he told reporters afterward, "a very pleasant morning." He was accompanied by Lt. Col. John Powers, Project Mercury information officer.

Glenn told the President newsmen, in effect were bringing out the "Walter Mitty" in the public — a hidden desire to live the spectacular experience of an astronaut. Mitty was a fictional character who fancied himself in assorted heroic roles. Mitty was created by the late James Thurber.

Kennedy sympathized a bit with Glenn, saying he was aware of the problem but noting also that it put a human stamp on Project Mercury.

Glenn was besieged by reporters and photographers at his home in nearby Arlington, Va., last Saturday.

In his conversation with Kennedy, the astronaut said he didn't mind the attention at all but the emphasis was on the wrong points.

Glenn said he and Powers had discussed their concern about diverting that attention to the science behind the program to orbit a man in space.

"We don't know how to get them to concentrate on the scientific aspects," Glenn said. Newsmen, he added, appear to be more interested in such personal items as "how Annie (Mrs. Glenn) is getting her hair fixed."

Glenn's 15-minute visit was his second call on Kennedy. He and other Project Mercury astronauts chatted with the President the day Washington gave Alan B. Shepard Jr., America's first man to complete a suborbital flight, a rousing welcome last May.

On leaving the White House, Glenn and Powers walked past a group of pickets protesting nuclear tests. Neither paid the marchers any heed — and the pickets obviously did not recognize the astronaut.

DIXON changed his plea of innocence to guilty on a reduced charge of assault and battery. According to court records, Dixon's daughter married since the incident and refused to testify. The charge was reduced to assault and battery.

William Salyers, indicted by the January 1961 session of the Pickaway County Grand Jury, was placed on three years probation by Judge Ammer on an indictment for pointing a firearm at another person. Salyers pleaded guilty to charges.

Reece Davis, London, received an 18-month probationary period for carrying a concealed weapon. Davis was indicted by the January 1962 Grand Jury.

3 More Cabin Thefts Probed

Three more owners of cottages along Darby Creek during the weekend reported thefts of articles from their properties.

Three men apprehended early last week by the sheriff's department are suspected of the cabin thefts. At least five cottage owners along Darby have reported entries since the trio was apprehended.

Owners reporting thefts Saturday and Sunday were Walter Garner, 235 Sunset Drive, and Delbert Smith and C. A. Williams, both of Columbus. Paul Sheets of Harrisburg and John McGee of Orient had reported entries earlier.

The three men being held here are brothers Michael and Jerry Monst and Dillard L. Tigner, all of the Orient area. They have been bound to the Pickaway County Grand Jury.

Sheriff Walton W. Spangler today said other cabins in the Darby Creek area may have been entered. He said it would be wise for all owners to check their cottages.

Two Are Sentenced For Battery Theft

Two New Holland area men were fined and sentenced in Circleville Municipal Court Saturday on charges of taking six batteries from the Robert Mace farm near New Holland.

Appearing for preliminary hearings were Carl Law and Martin McDaniel. The affidavits were filed by Deputy Sheriff Gene Kerns.

Law was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 90 days in jail. McDaniel was fined $50 and costs and sentenced 30 days.

The court suspended both jail terms and imposed probation for two years. Judge Sterling M. Lamb also ordered the accused to make restitution for the batteries within 15 days.

U.S. Helicopters Help Viet Nam

Air Raid Scatters Communist Force

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. helicopter company airlifted Vietnamese troops on a raid Sunday to wipe out a strong Viet Cong Communist force based at Hung My, a village near the southern tip of South Viet Nam.

Most of the quarry escaped. Three rebels were captured. A large supply of medicine, 10 pounds of documents and some homemade arms were seized.

But the great majority of the village garrison—about 130 guerrilla troops—fled from freshly dug foxholes into the nearby bamboo groves as the fleet of U.S. copters roared down on them.

Of the 15 helicopters involved, one was downed and another was hit by parting fire. None of the Americans and Vietnamese aboard was injured.

The airborne assault force, moved into the attack in three successive waves, totaled one battalion of Vietnamese infantry and a company of rangers—perhaps 500 men.

Only women, children and two old men occupied the village by the time the copter fleet last touched down and three Vietnamese army units, each with American military advisers, closed in.

Lt. Col. Robert B. Olson of Dallas, Tex., one of the advisers, commented that, "Limited as we were in men, machines and communications, we just could not close that ring tight enough."

Women who emerged from the grass huts, some with naked babies in their arms, gave questioners little information about the strength and whereabouts of the guerrillas, and much of what they did say was conflicting.

"You can't really blame them," said Maj. David Gallier of Washington, D.C. "If these women talk today, they'll probably die tomorrow."

Adult moths do not eat furs and woolens. The culprits in the clothes closet are their tiny larvae. Grown-up moths prefer the nectar of flowers.

An Ashville resident, treated for first and second degree burns of both hands and forearms, headed a list of emergency cases treated during the weekend at Berger Hospital.

Josephine Shillingburg, 53, received severe burns when she attempted to light the burners of a gas cook-stove. She was treated and released.

Laura Haddix, a resident of the Pickaway County Home, was treated for a laceration of the forehead after falling and striking her head against a baseboard at the Home.

Henry Ayers, 22, Ashville, received treatment for a finger laceration following an accident while working at the Kippy Kit Co.

Raymond Walisa, 14, of 335 E. Ohio St., received abrasions on a finger of his right hand at a skating rink in Kingston.

Harold White, 48, of 229 Town St. cut his hand on a power tool while working at home. He was treated for a laceration of the first finger of the left hand.

Terry Lee Sowers, 19, of 129 Logan St., lacerated his right index finger while changing a tire on his automobile. He was treated and released.

Vandalism Probed

A vandalism complaint at the S. Court St. School was investigated today by local police. Officers said two windows and four glass bricks were broken, apparently with an air gun.

Self-Government Restored to Malta

By STEVE LIBBY
Written Especially for Central
Press and This Newspaper

A new constitution restoring self-government to the Mediterranean Island of Malta, made by Britain's Queen Elizabeth in Council recently, accepted the recommendations of the Constitutional Commission of the 17 by 10-mile island.

Dating back 5,000 years into Middle Eastern history, the "new" island will be known as the State of Malta.

Its government will have full legislative and executive power, but in foreign affairs its 300,000 citizens will enjoy the powers concurrently with her majesty's government in the United Kingdom, whose responsibility will be exercised through a commissioner stationed in Malta.

This island where St. Paul was shipwrecked has been the scene for history throughout the ages. It has belonged to the Phoenicians, the Greeks, the Carthaginians, the Romans and the Saracens. It has passed into the hands of Sicily, Turkey, France and Great Britain. Besieged by war — as late as CHAMPS' SON—This young man probably will be ice skating before he can walk. He is Mark Alan Jenkins, held by his mother, Mrs. Carol Heiss Jenkins, 22, world Olympic and movie ice skating star. His father is Hayes Alan Jenkins, 28, an Akron, O., attorney and a former Olympic skating star.

World War II Malta was subjected to more than 2,000 heavy air raids by Italian and German planes — the Maltese have always been courageous people; in 1942 King George VI awarded the entire population a decoration for bravery. The Italian fleet surrendered at Valetta, Malta's capital.

Few people, even Maltese, are students of the history of the island, but ancient and modern culture stand side by side here.

Relics of a village dating 3,000 years before Christ may be seen at Ghar Dalam. Here the first Maltese farmers lived.

Not far away are the megalithic temples of Tarxien, gigantic sanctuaries of hoary antiquity which, with their counterparts Mnajdra and Hagiar Qim, are rarities in the entire world.

At Rabat are well-preserved remains of a Roman Palace, with documented evidence of the artistic tastes prevailing during the first century in Malta.

St. Paul is perhaps most remembered by most people in association with Malta — a visit to St. Paul's Bay leads one to the site of the famous shipwreck of the Apostle of the Gentiles so graphically described in the Bible.

St. Paul's Catacombs, with their "agape tables" hand-hewn out of solid rock and with canopied graves and tombs cut in imitation of sacred Greek sarcophagi, bring the visitor toward the third century A.D., long after Malta had been converted to Christianity.

The old capital city of Mdina is wonderfully preserved from Norman times.

From that golden period in Malta's unique history, one can quickly switch to the time of the Knights of Malta, when the Order of St. John — embodying the aristocracy of all Europe — had its headquarters on the islands.

Today's capital city, Valetta, is a dignified monument to that order of chivalry. The Conventual Church of St. John and the bastions and fortifications of the city are architecturally imposing, as are the Auberges of the order. These were all built after Malta had been recognized as the shield of Christendom following the Siege of 1565.

One of the oldest cultures in the universe, and a standing monument to Christianity, Malta now becomes the world's newest state.

Youth Held In Fatal Assault Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Russell Farlow, 50-year-old service station attendant, died in General Hospital today of injuries suffered in a brutal beating during a hold-up.

Thomas Clifford Hept, a slender 21-year-old blond youth, taken into custody a short time after Farlow was found, has been charged with robbery and assault with intent to kill but police said the charges would be changed to murder.

Herb Vogel, assistant chief of Hamilton County detectives, said Kept admitted the beating. Farlow was found in the service station in suburban Monfort Heights.

Police said he had been beaten about the head with a crowbar. His skull was fractured and a crowbar had been rammed through his neck.

County detectives arrested Hept at his rooming house. They said Hept admitted the attack, showed them where he had hidden $95 in his mattress and led them to a small bridge under which officers recovered the youth's blood-stained trench coat.

Neal C. Hills, owner of the station, estimated $190 was taken from the forced-open cash register and a steel box. Detectives found $40 more in Hept's room, but Hept told them the money was not part of the loot.

Fighting Disease

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) — A four-man Army medical team is helping Malaya tackle the twin scourges of scrub typhus and leprosy.

In Malaya 10 per cent of undiagnosed fever cases had been put down to scrub typhus and 30 per cent pronounced due to leprosy.

In 1953 the first U.S. Army medical unit came out to work alongside Malayan scientists at the Malayan Institute of Medical Research. Today the institute has a staff of 45 Malaysians employed as workers. Their payroll is borne by the U.S. government.

Can scientists do anything to eradicate these two infectious diseases?

"There is no concept of eradication," says Col. Hinton J. Baker of Mandarin, Fla., leader of the four-man team. "We have hopes we may find the means to control them."

Ohio Is Still Leading Truck-BUILDER

DETROIT (AP)—Ohio strengthened its position as the nation's leading truck building state during 1961.

Although total truck production

declined by more than 68,000 units from 1960, Ohio's total rose by almost 17,000 and its share of the industry output climbed from 25.3 per cent to 28.2 per cent.

This was the fourth straight year in first for Ohio, home of six major truck plants and sole source of the Willys Jeep, which alone took almost 11 per cent of the total.

Missouri moved into second place, dropping Michigan to third. California was fourth and New Jersey fifth. A survey by Ward's Reports showed these five states accounted for 75.1 per cent of all truck manufacturing. The remainder was divided among 14 other states from Connecticut to Washington.

Of the 19 states which have truck plants, 16 also have passenger car assembly plants. The exceptions are Oregon, Washington and Connecticut. Kansas, Delaware and Massachusetts have car building plants but no truck plants.

The biggest individual gainer for the year was Indiana. Although it remained in sixth place, the Hoosier state jumped from 42,635 units in 1960 to 68,849 units in 1961, mainly because of the International Harvester plant at Fort Wayne. This is the home plant for International's Scout, a multi-purpose small vehicle first introduced last year.

Ohio benefited from Ford's light truck production at Lorain, only assembly plant for Econoline models and one of two locations for the Falcon Ranchero.

Missouri has three truck building plants, one Ford and two Chevrolet. Michigan has six but only three — Dodge, Chevrolet and GMC — are volume producers.

Total truck production in 1961 was 1,129,697 units, down from 1,198,206 in 1960. Chevrolet was the leading producer, edging Ford by a bare 6,000 units. The previous year Chevrolet outbuilt Ford by 57,000.

International finished third, followed by Willys, GMC, Dodge, White, Mack, Studebaker, Diamond T and Diver. Among the major builders only Ford, International and Willys built more trucks last year than in 1960.

The Automobile Manufacturers Association estimated the number of trucks and buses registered in the United States rose slightly more than 300,000 during 1961 to a total of 12,519,000. This would be a ratio of about five passenger cars to each truck or bus.

Almost 18 per cent of all truck production is exported, compared with barely 2 per cent of passenger car production, according to AMA calculations.

Standings of the truck-producing states in 1961 as determined by Ward's Report: (Figure in parenthesis indicate the state's ranking in passenger car output) 1. Ohio (6); 2. Missouri (2); 3. Self-Government Restored to Malta

Written Especially for Central
Press and This Newspaper

A new constitution restoring self-government to the Mediterranean island of Malta, made by Britain's Queen Elizabeth in Council recently, accepted the recommendations of the Constitutional Commission of the 17 by 10-mile island.

Dating back 5,000 years into Middle Eastern history, the "new" island will be known as the State of Malta.

Its government will have full legislative and executive power, but in foreign affairs its 300,000 citizens will enjoy the powers concurrently with her majesty's government in the United Kingdom, whose responsibility will be exercised through a commissioner stationed in Malta.

This island where St. Paul was shipwrecked has been the scene for history throughout the ages. It has belonged to the Phoenicians, the Greeks, the Carthaginians, the Romans and the Saracens. It has passed into the hands of Sicily, Turkey, France and Great Britain.

Besieged by war — as late as

CHAMPS' SON—This young man probably will be ice skating before he can walk. He is Mark Alan Jenkins, held by his mother, Mrs. Carol Heiss Jenkins, 22, world Olympic and movie ice skating star. His father is Hayes Alan Jenkins, 28, an Akron, O., attorney and a former Olympic skating star.

World War II Malta was subjected to more than 2,000 heavy air raids by Italian and German planes — the Maltese have always been courageous people; in 1942 King George VI awarded the entire population a decoration for bravery. The Italian fleet surrendered at Valetta, Malta's capital.

Few people, even Maltese, are students of the history of the island, but ancient and modern culture stand side by side here.

Relics of a village dating 3,000 years before Christ may be seen at Ghar Dalam. Here the first Maltese farmers lived.

Not far away are the megalithic temples of Tarxien, gigantic sanctuaries of hoary antiquity which, with their counterparts Mnajdra and Haggar Qim, are rarities in the entire world.

At Rabat are well-preserved remains of a Roman Palace, with documented evidence of the artistic tastes prevailing during the first century in Malta.

St. Paul is perhaps most remembered by most people in association with Malta — a visit to St. Paul's Bay leads one to the site of the famous shipwreck of the Apostle of the Gentiles so graphically described in the Bible.

St. Paul's Catacombs, with their "agape tables" hand-hewn out of solid rock, and with canopied graves and tombs cut in imitation of sacred Greek sarcophagi, bring the visitor toward the third century A.D., long after Malta had been converted to Christianity.

The old capital city of Mdina is wonderfully preserved from Norman times.

From that golden period in Malta's unique history, one can quickly switch to the time of the Knights of Malta, when the Order of St. John — embodying the aristocracy of all Europe — had its headquarters on the islands.

Today's capital city, Valetta, is a dignified monument to that order of chivalry. The Conventual Church of St. John and the bastions and fortifications of the city are architecturally imposing, as are the Auberges of the order. These were all built after Malta had been recognized as the shield of Christendom following the Siege of 1565.

One of the oldest cultures in the universe, and a standing monument to Christianity, Malta now becomes the world's newest state.

Youth Held In Fatal Assault Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Russell Farlow, 50-year-old service station attendant, died in General Hospital today of injuries suffered in a brutal beating during a hold-up.

Thomas Clifford Hept, a slender 21-year-old blond youth, taken into custody a short time after Farlow was found, has been charged with robbery and assault with intent to kill but police said the charges would be changed to murder.

Herb Vogel, assistant chief of Hamilton County detectives, said Hept admitted the beating. Farlow was found in the service station in suburban Monfort Heights.

Police said he had been beaten about the head with a crowbar. His skull was fractured and a crowbar had been rammed through his neck.

County detectives arrested Hept at his rooming house. They said Hept admitted the attack, showed them where he had hidden $95 in his mattress and led them to a small bridge under which officers recovered the youth's blood-stained trench coat.

Neal C. Hills, owner of the station, estimated $190 was taken from the forced-open cash register and a steel box. Detectives found $40 more in Hept's room, but Hept told them the money was not part of the loot.

Fighting Disease

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) — A four-man Army medical team is helping Malaya tackle the twin scourges of scrub typhus and leptospirosis.

In Malaya 10 per cent of undiagnosed fever cases had been put down to scrub typhus and 30 per cent pronounced due to leptospirosis.

In 1953 the first U.S. Army medical unit came out to work along-side Malayan scientists at the Malayan Institute of Medical Research. Today the institute has a staff of 45 Malaysians employed as workers. Their payroll is borne by the U. S. government.

Can scientists do anything to eradicate these two infectious diseases?

"There is no concept of eradication," says Col. Hinton J. Baker of Mandarin, Fla., leader of the four-man team. "We have hopes we may find the means to control them."

Ohio Is Still Leading Truck-BUILDER

DETROIT (AP)—Ohio strengthened its position as the nation's leading truck building state during 1961.

Although total truck production

declined by more than 68,000 units from 1960, Ohio's total rose by almost 17,000 and its share of the industry output climbed from 25.2 per cent to 28.2 per cent.

This was the fourth straight year in first for Ohio, home of six major truck plants and sole source of the Willys Jeep, which alone took almost 11 per cent of the total.

Missouri moved into second place, dropping Michigan to third. California was fourth and New Jersey fifth. A survey by Ward's Reports showed these five states accounted for 75.1 per cent of all truck manufacturing. The remainder was divided among 14 other states from Connecticut to Washington.

Of the 19 states which have truck plants, 16 also have passenger car assembly plants. The exceptions are Oregon, Washington and Connecticut. Kansas, Delaware and Massachusetts have car building plants but no truck plants.

The biggest individual gainer for the year was Indiana. Although it remained in sixth place, the Hoosier state jumped from 42,635 units in 1960 to 68,849 units in 1961, mainly because of the International Harvester plant at Fort Wayne. This is the home plant for International's Scout, a multi-purpose small vehicle first introduced last year.

Ohio benefited from Ford's light truck production at Lorain, only assembly plant for Econoline models and one of two locations for the Falcon Ranchero.

Missouri has three truck building plants, one Ford and two Chevrolet. Michigan has six but only three — Dodge, Chevrolet and GMC — are volume producers.

Total truck production in 1961 was 1,129,697 units, down from 1,198,206 in 1960. Chevrolet was the leading producer, edging Ford by a bare 6,000 units. The previous year Chevrolet outbuilt Ford by 57,000.

International finished third, followed by Willys, GMC, Dodge, White, Mack, Studebaker, Diamond T and Divco. Among the major builders only Ford, International and Willys built more trucks last year than in 1960.

The Automobile Manufacturers Association estimated the number of trucks and buses registered in the United States rose slightly more than 300,000 during 1961 to a total of 12,519,000. This would be a ratio of about five passenger cars to each truck or bus.

Almost 18 per cent of all truck production is exported, compared with barely 2 per cent of passenger car production, according to AMA calculations.

Standings of the truck - producing states in 1961 as determined by Ward's Report: (Figure in parenthesis indicate the state's ranking in passenger car output) 1. Ohio (6); 2. Missouri (2); 3. Michigan (1); 4. California (4); 5. New Jersey (5); 6. Indiana (15); 7. New York (9); 8. Kentucky (18); 9. Wisconsin (3); 10. Maryland (10); 11. Virginia (17); 12. Georgia (7); 13. Illinois (12); 14. Texas (11); 15. Connecticut (0); 16. Pennsylvania (19); 17. Minnesota (14); 18. Washington (0); 19. Oregon (0).

Grass Roots Politics

In a departure from the traditional role of the agricultural extension service, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman has called for greater participation in the formulation of policy by the 14,000 agents of the federal-state farm organization.

Throughout its long existence, the extension service has provided assistance to farmers as the information wing of the Department of Agriculture.

As coordinated effort supported roughly in thirds by federal, state and local governments the farm agents and the information placed at their disposal by experimentation and research in land grant colleges have made worthwhile contributions to the continuing productivity of agriculture.

Education of rural citizens is new methods of farming, preserving, conserving and related agricultural activities has been maintained for good reason.

Probably nowhere in political life is there a greater divergence of opinion on how to solve a major problem affecting the livelihood of millions than that found in agriculture. Farmers themselves, individually and through cooperatives and farm organizations, are widely divided on solutions they would like to see.

Placing the farm agent in the position of taking sides in political disputes would alienate at least some of the mutual confidence he shares with the farmer.

From the administration's point of view, enlisting the aid of 14,000 farm agents in behalf of policy decisions might seem to be an attractive enticement. The service is under the direction of the Agriculture Department. How much opposition could be expected to come from its ranks to policy "suggestions" by the secretary of agriculture?

As a minority partner in the financing of extension service activities, the federal government is entitled to ask personnel of the service for advice. To request the service to indulge in policy-making activities is to open the door to inflammations in farmer - government relations which will not serve the best interests of either.

Special Delivery

An interesting fact is revived for discussion by the British post office employers' slowdown in an effort to force the government to boost their pay. At one time it was possible for a Briton to post himself.

Before World War II, a person could be "handed" as an express delivery and be escorted on public transportation by post office officials to his destination. The service was ended in 1939 because of the war, and was never resumed because there was no demand for it.

Or little demand that is, until the other day when a Mrs. Gertrude Wood walked into a post office and asked to be mailed by express to the postmaster general as a form of protest at the employees' slowdown. She was told that "human parcels" could be accepted no longer.

As Reuters news agency observed in reporting the story: "The only way Mrs. Wood now can be posted is by dividing herself into 15-pound parcels, the maximum weight the post office will accept."

Some observers of the contemporary scene suggest there is an even greater need for this service than there was 30 years ago. Modern living conditions, especially in crowded Britain, have made it more expedient for husbands to escape bridge games and other chores by walking into a post office and placing themselves voluntarily in the protective custody of the postal department.

Spouses would be powerless to intercept fleeing males — the penalties for tampering with the mails are most severe.

Price of Prosperity: Fat

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One of the prices of prosperity — one in every five Americans over 30, doctors say, is dangerously overweight.

All women yearn to be beautiful, but beauty is no guarantee of either happiness or a long life. Marie Antoinette married at 14, became queen of France at 18, and lost her head to the guillotine at 37.

Life keeps getting easier all the time. A process has been developed whereby you can now send facsimile telegrams in your own handwriting. Hunters can buy decoys so realistic they flap their wings.

What is your handicap? Three of the most eloquent men who ever lived — Demosthenes, Edmund Burke, and Abraham Lincoln — all had poor speaking voices.

The good old days: In 1901 the first New York State automobile licenses cost $1.

Money is changing hands faster. The average dollar bills gets so battered it has to be taken out of circulation after eight months.

Our quotable notables: "If you see a woman weeping, you can't always be sure whether it is because she has lost her lover or because she has been peeling onions." — Deems Taylor.

One way to solve the parking problem: A scientist says that if the population increases at the present rate in 750 years each square foot of earth will hold a human being — thus leaving no room for automobiles.

The theory of atomic structure isn't new. In 500 B.C. Democritus, ancient Greece's "laughing philosopher," taught that the world is composed of "infinitesimally tiny particles."

It was Ethel Barrymore who observed, "You grow up the day you have your first real laugh — at yourself."

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — Guessing what the stock market will do is a whole-time job for thousands and a part-time job for millions.

And if you feel that all the professional guessing just now on the course of the market is loaded with more than the usual quota of hedging—well, you aren't alone. The experts are all predicting like mad—and sometimes it takes another expert to interpret their predictions.

Out in Phoenix, Ariz., a vice president of the Valley National Bank, Herbert A. Leggett, puts tongue in cheek and looks at the market and the economy in terms he says a lot of the experts use. "Stock market acting up but will always fluctuate, brokers contend. If it doesn't there won't be any brokers," he says.

In the monthly economic letter he writes for the bank, he gets down to fundamentals:

"What about people? Frankly, the outlook isn't good. However, statisticians figure differently. More people mean more marriages, more divorces, more statistics.

"Baby crop to exceed expectations, sources anticipate. More babies mean more parents, more tax deductions, more everything."

The Arizona banker also takes a look at the economy in general. "Major trend positively up, dopesters assert. Of course, the minor trends may ruin you, but that is positively not their fault."

The dangers of guessing what the market is going to do, particularly the dangers for amateurs, are stressed in a deadly serious vein by one Wall Street expert, Arthur Wiesenberger. He aims his thrusts at the popular notion that a bull market is a time of prosperity and profits for everyone.

Wiesenberger points out that at the end of the year the Dow Jones industrial average was close to its historic high "167 points and 30 per cent higher than at the eve of the presidential election just 14 hectic months before."

That puts 1961 squarely on the generally accepted list of bull market years.

But maybe you had other stocks than those carried in the popular averages. Worse, you may have held some stocks among the 129 listed on the New York Stock Exchange that Wiesenberger notes declined 40 per cent or more from their 1960-61 highs. Some declined as much as 70 per cent in price. And among the 40 that were off 50 per cent or more were a number that had been speculative favorites.

Some of the worst casualties of 1961 moreover, weren't listed on any exchange but were sold over the counter to persons who felt that in a bull market everything must go up.

The major trend, to be sure, was up. But if you put your money on the less fortunate among the favorites, you know what is meant by "the minor trends may ruin you."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

AN INVETERATE race track gambler died, and one of his pals called another devotee of the horses on the phone. "I've got to go to poor Al's funeral," he reported, "but I can't remember the name of the cemetery." "So who cares what the name is," shrugged the friend. "Take the Midtown Tunnel and it's the third one on the way to Aqueduct."

A leading publisher, famous for his taste in books, wines, and vari-colored shirts, purchased a Rolls Royce recently with the profits earned from two new books of poetry. A week after it had been delivered, the publisher called the dealer to complain that wheezing noises were emanating from the front end. "There is only one possible explanation," said the Rolls man humbly. "Your chauffeur has asthma."

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M. D.

Joyce held her coat collar up as she raced for the bus, but when she let go her head was tipped, tilted and frozen in place!

Neck nerves were being pinched between spinal bones. Any swelling narrows the nerve opening. Joyce had forced a spinal bone partly out of joint.

It's a common injury. Any sudden twist can stretch those tiny joints that fasten spinal bones together, especially when someone plows into the back of your car and then forwards like a ship!

With the head tipped forward, the nerve openings widen. Joyce couldn't tighten her fist. Pain flowed down to her fingertips. Her back ached between the shoulder blades and her neck muscles stood out like thick, tight cords.

Automatic nerve fibers may carry the pain to your chest or head, blur vision and raise blood pressure on the bad side. Examining you and your X-rays helps the doctor pinpoint the trouble.

A hot, wet towel relaxes painful spasm, but constant heat may expel the nerve into pain. Gentle massage helps, too. So does aspirin and sleep without a pillow.

A small support under the neck tips the head back. So does lying on your back with the head over the edge of the bed. You can feel those tight muscles stretch and relax.

Your doctor can prescribe muscle-relaxing and inflammation-melting medicines. He may inject numbing Novocain (R), slide the bone into place or prescribe a special muscle-stretching turtle-neck collar or brace.

Aspirin, heat and a cotton turtle-neck quickly cured Joyce, except for occasional twinges.

Today, she handles that coat collar like a dangerous weapon. She is careful about pulling it up to warm her face. She doesn't want to find her head tipped, tilted and frozen again.

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

No Charge for 'Baby'

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — "Do you charge for babies less than six months old?" The attractive young woman asked, glancing down at a blanket-wrapped bundle in her arms.

The ticket agent said no. The woman bought her ticket, hurried out and onto a bus. At her destination the driver helped her off, bestowing a friendly pat on the bundle.

And that is how one visitor to Memphis made the trip from here to her home in Arkansas recently without being separated from her 3-month-old puppy.

We Like To Hold Our Own

By George Sokolsky

Always there is excitement about producing some kind of a One World and always the resistance to the idea grows more intense.

This will go down as the era of intensified nationalism, with 104 nations actually members of the United Nations. The fragmentation of mankind rather than the union of peoples is the characteristic of the moment. I can recall when half a century ago men like Andrew Carnegie believed that their efforts were bringing on a unified mankind. The Hague Tribunal, the League of Nations and the United Nation came into existence with this end in view.

When I was a boy there was much excitement about the possibility of a single language for all mankind. That too has passed away. Professor Mario Pei, who knows more about languages than most authorities, writes me: "So far as the question of international 'understanding' (whatever that much-belabored word may mean) is concerned, I could not agree with you more. In all my writings, on the subject, I have been at great pains to point out that the world's civil wars, from the days of a ancient Rome to modern America, Russia and Spain, are there to indicate that peace and the brotherhood of man do not at all hinge on linguistic comprehension."

The World Language Association has apparently the wisdom of recognizing that while no country is going to give up its own special traditional way of expressing itself, it might be possible to come to an agreement to use some one language for business and politics as Latin was once a universal tongue in the West or Aramaic in the East. There was a time when French was the universal tongue of diplomacy but the United Nations can no longer expect French to serve and delegates plug their ears to listen to interpreters in several tongues. There was a time when English was the tongue of trade but today one must use whatever tongue is needed to sell a safety razor or a sewing machine.

Professor Pei, in his letter to me, makes a salient point:

"The fact that your son learned French in school did not make a Frenchman out of him. All it did was to permit him to communicate with a Frenchman... a single language in official and popular use throughout the world would permit him to land in the same way in Saigon, Taiwan, Leopoldville or Rio de Janeiro, and still be able to communicate with all the people he would encounter, with the same ease with which he communicates with people in San Francisco, Milwaukee or Boston (whom he does not necessarily love or feel brotherly towards)."

If the question of language is approached realistically, it obviously has nothing to do with peace. Among my most belligerent friends are some who speak several languages and can curse in each. Their knowledge of language does not sweeten their attitude toward each other. The lingua franca of each age of each geographical area is a means of getting around but it does not help to unify ideas, although mathematical symbols do a job for the scientist who wherever he may be understands the plus mark; similarly musicians in nearly all parts of the world can sooner or later read a score. A Japanese journalist may stumble over Shakespeare but a Japanese fiddler can read Wagner or the "Rhapsody in Blue". Both deal with ideas.

An old friend of mine, Henry Eichheim, now long dead, used to walk about the streets of Shanghai writing down the sounds he heard. Eichheim could not understand a word of any dialect of Chinese; he was a musician a fiddler, who spent the leisure of retirement transcribing Chinese music into our scale. Puccini did nearly that, although Eichheim was more skillful. He universalized an alien tongue and thereby made it a lost tongue.

We humans are curious in that we like to hold on to our own. A partially universal language is Yiddish, a low-grade German jargon which includes Hebrew, Russian, Rumanian and Polish words, written in Hebrew letters and understood principally in countries where there is no reason for even a phase of German culture. Another such tongue is what Westerners like to call Mandarin, a dialect of Chinese spoken in the North but which an official needed to know anywhere and which, many could not speak but made their ideas known by writing the characters on the palms of their hands with a finger.

Grass Roots Politics

In a departure from the traditional role of the agricultural extension service, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman has called for greater participation in the formulation of policy by the 14,000 agents of the federal-state farm organization.

Throughout its long existence, the extension service has provided assistance to farmers as the information wing of the Department of Agriculture.

As coordinated effort supported roughly in thirds by federal, state and local governments the farm agents and the information placed at their disposal by experimentation and research in land grant colleges have made worthwhile contributions to the continuing productivity of agriculture.

Education of rural citizens is new methods of farming, preserving, conserving and related agricultural activities has been maintained for good reason.

Probably nowhere in political life is there a greater divergence of opinion on how to solve a major problem affecting the livelihood of millions than that found in agriculture. Farmers themselves, individually and through cooperatives and farm organizations, are widely divided on solutions they would like to see.

Placing the farm agent in the position of taking sides in political disputes would alienate at least some of the mutual confidence he shares with the farmer.

From the administration's point of view, enlisting the aid of 14,000 farm agents in behalf of policy decisions might seem to be an attractive enticement. The service is under the direction of the Agriculture Department. How much opposition could be expected to come from its ranks to policy "suggestions" by the secretary of agriculture?

As a minority partner in the financing of extension service activities, the federal government is entitled to ask personnel of the service for advice. To request the service to indulge in policy-making activities is to open the door to inflammations in farmer - government relations which will not serve the best interests of either.

Special Delivery

An interesting fact is revived for discussion by the British post office employers' slowdown in an effort to force the government to boost their pay. At one time it was possible for a Briton to post himself.

Before World War II, a person could be "handled" as an express delivery and be escorted on public transportation by post office officials to his destination. The service was ended in 1939 because of the war, and was never resumed because there was no demand for it.

Or little demand that is, until the other day when a Mrs. Gertrude Wood walked into a post office and asked to be mailed by express to the postmaster general as a form of protest at the employees' slowdown. She was told that "human parcels" could be accepted no longer.

As Reuters news agency observed in reporting the story: "The only way Mrs. Wood now can be posted is by dividing herself into 15-pound parcels, the maximum weight the post office will accept."

Some observers of the contemporary scene suggest there is an even greater need for this service than there was 30 years ago. Modern living conditions, especially in crowded Britain, have made it more expedient for husbands to escape bridge games and other chores by walking into a post office and placing themselves voluntarily in the protective custody of the postal department.

Spouses would be powerless to intercept fleeing males — the penalties for tampering with the mails are most severe.

Price of Prosperity: Fat

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One of the prices of prosperity — one in every five Americans over 30, doctors say, is dangerously overweight.

All women yearn to be beautiful, but beauty is no guarantee of either happiness or a long life. Marie Antoinette married at 14, became queen of France at 18, and lost her head to the guillotine at 37.

Life keeps getting easier all the time. A process has been developed whereby you can now send facsimile telegrams in your own handwriting. Hunters can buy decoys so realistic they flap their wings.

What is your handicap? Three of the most eloquent men who ever lived — Demosthenes, Edmund Burke, and Abraham Lincoln—all had poor speaking voices.

The good old days: In 1901 the first New York State automobile license cost $1.

Money is changing hands faster. The average dollar bill gets so battered it has to be taken out of circulation after eight months.

Our quotable notables: "If you see a woman weeping, you can't always be sure whether it is because she has lost her lover or because she has been peeling onions."—Deems Taylor.

One way to solve the parking problem: A scientist says that if the population increases at the present rate in 750 years each square foot of earth will hold a human being—thus leaving no room for automobiles.

The theory of atomic structure isn't new. In 500 B.C. Democritus, ancient Greece's "laughing philosopher," taught that the world is composed of "infinitesimally tiny particles."

It was Ethel Barrymore who observed, "You grow up the day you have your first real laugh—at yourself."

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—Guessing what the stock market will do is a whole-time job for thousands and a part-time job for millions.

And if you feel that all the professional guessing just now on the course of the market is loaded with more than the usual quota of hedging—well, you aren't alone. The experts are all predicting like mad—and sometimes it takes another expert to interpret their predictions.

Out in Phoenix, Ariz., a vice president of the Valley National Bank, Herbert A. Leggett, puts tongue in cheek and looks at the market and the economy in terms he says a lot of the experts use.

"Stock market acting up but will always fluctuate, brokers contend. If it doesn't there won't be any brokers," he says.

In the monthly economic letter he writes for the bank, he gets down to fundamentals:

"What about people? Frankly, the outlook isn't good. However, statisticians figure differently. More people mean more marriages, more divorces, more statistics."

"Baby crop to exceed expectations, sources anticipate. More babies mean more parents, more tax deductions, more everything."

The Arizona banker also takes a look at the economy in general: "Major trend positively up, dopers assert. Of course, the minor trends may ruin you, but that is positively not their fault."

The dangers of guessing what the market is going to do, particularly the dangers for amateurs, are stressed in a deadly serious vein by one Wall Street expert, Arthur Wiesenberger. He aims his thrusts at the popular notion that a bull market is a time of prosperity and profits for everyone.

Wiesenberger points out that at the end of the year the Dow Jones industrial average was close to its historic high "167 points and 30 per cent higher than at the eve of the presidential election just 14 hectic months before."

That puts 1961 squarely on the generally accepted list of bull market years.

But maybe you had other stocks than those carried in the popular averages. Worse, you may have held some stocks among the 120 listed on the New York Stock Exchange declined 40 per cent or more from their 1960-61 highs. Some declined as much as 70 per cent in price.

And among the 40 that were off 50 per cent or more were a number that had been speculative favorites.

Some of the worst casualties of 1961 moreover, weren't listed on any exchange but were sold over the counter to persons who felt that in a bull market everything must go up.

The major trend, to be sure, was up. But if you put your money on the less fortunate among the favorites, you know what is meant by "the minor trends may ruin you."

Inside You and Yours

By BURTON H. FERN, M. D.

Joyce held her coat collar up as she raced for the bus, but when she let go her head was tipped, tilted and frozen in place!

Neck nerves were being pinched between spinal bones. Any swelling narrows the nerve opening. Joyce had forced a spinal bone partly out of joint.

It's a common injury. Any sudden twist can stretch those tiny joints that fasten spinal bones together, especially when someone plows into the back of your car and then forwards like a ship!

With the head tipped forward, the nerve openings widen.

Joyce couldn't tighten her fist. Pain flowed down to her fingertips. Her back ached between the shoulder blades and her neck muscles stood out like thick, tight cords.

Automatic nerve fibers may carry the pain to your chest or head, blur vision and raise blood pressure on the bad side. Examining you and your X-rays helps the doctor pinpoint the trouble.

A hot, wet towel relaxes painful spasms, but constant heat may explode into violent pain. Gentle massage helps, too. So does aspirin and sleep without a pillow.

A small support under the neck tips the head back. So does lying on your back with the head over the edge of the bed. You can feel those tight muscles stretch and relax.

Your doctor can prescribe muscle-relaxing and inflammation-

melting medicines. He may inject numbing Novocain (R), slide the bone into place or prescribe a special muscle-stretching turtle-neck collar or brace.

Aspirin, heat and a cotton turtle-neck quickly cured Joyce, except for occasional twinges.

Today, she handles that coat collar like a dangerous weapon. She is careful about pulling it up to warm her face. She doesn't want to find her head tipped, tilted and frozen again.

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

No Charge for 'Baby'

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — "Do you charge for babies less than six months old?" The attractive young woman asked, glancing down at a blanket-wrapped bundle in her arms.

The ticket agent said no. The woman bought her ticket, hurried out and onto a bus. At her destination the driver helped her off, bestowing a friendly pat on the bundle.

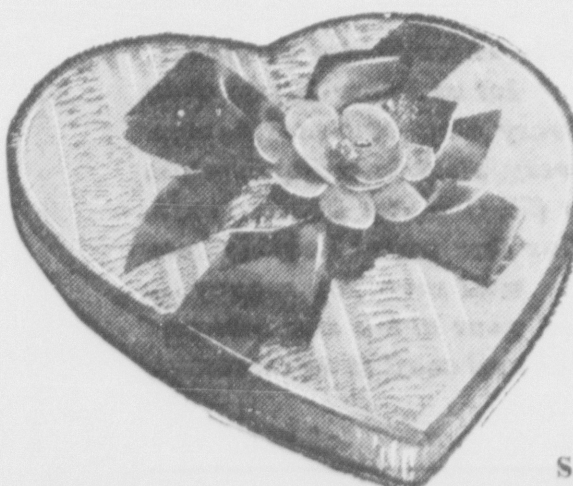

And that is how one visitor to Memphis made the trip from here to her home in Arkansas recently without being separated from her 3-month-old puppy.

We Like To Hold Our Own

By George Sokolsky

Always there is excitement about producing some kind of a One World and always the resistance to the idea grows more intense.

This will go down as the era of intensified nationalism, with 104 nations actually members of the United Nations. The fragmentation of mankind rather than the union of peoples is the characteristic of the moment. I can recall when half a century ago men like Andrew Carnegie believed that their efforts were bringing on a unified mankind. The Hague Tribunal, the League of Nations and the United Nation came into existence with this end in view.

When I was a boy there was much excitement about the possibility of a single language for all mankind. That too has passed away. Professor Mario Pei, who knows more about languages than most authorities, writes me:

"So far as the question of international 'understanding' (whatever that much-belabored word may mean) is concerned, I could not agree with you more. In all my writings, on the subject, I have been at great pains to point out that the world's civil wars, from the days of a ancient Rome to modern America, Russia and Spain, are there to indicate that peace and the brotherhood of man do not at all hinge on linguistic comprehension."

The World Language Association has apparently the wisdom of recognizing that while no country is going to give up its own special traditional way of expressing itself, it might be possible to come to an agreement to use some one language for business and politics as Latin was once a universal tongue in the West or Aramaic in the East. There was a time when French was the universal tongue of diplomacy but the United Nations can no longer expect French to serve and delegations to plug their ears to listen to interpreters in several tongues. There was a time when English was the tongue of trade but today one must use whatever tongue is needed to sell a safety razor or a sewing machine.

Professor Pei, in his letter to me, makes a salient point:

"The fact that your son learned French in school did not make a Frenchman out of him. All it did was to permit him to communicate with a Frenchman... a single language in official and popular use throughout the world would permit him to land in the same way in Saigon, Taiwan, Leopoldville or Rio de Janeiro, and still be able to communicate with all the people he would encounter, with the same ease with which he communicates with people in San Francisco, Milwaukee or Boston (whom he does not necessarily love or feel brotherly towards)."

If the question of language is approached realistically, it obviously has nothing to do with peace. Among my most belligerent friends are some who speak several languages and can curse in each. Their knowledge of language does not sweeten their attitude toward each other. The lingua franca of each age of each geographical area is a means of getting around but it does not help to unify ideas, although mathematical symbols do a job for the scientist who wherever he may be understands the plus mark; similarly musicians in nearly all parts of the world can sooner or later read a score. A Japanese journalist may stumble over Shakespeare but a Japanese fiddler can read Wagner or the "Rhapsody in Blue". Both deal with ideas.

An old friend of mine, Henry Eichheim, now long dead, used to walk about the streets of Shanghai writing down the sounds he heard. Eichheim could not understand a word of any dialect of Chinese; he was a musician a fiddler, who spent the leisure of retirement transcribing Chinese music into our scale. Puccini did nearly that, although Eichheim was more skillful. He universalized an alien tongue and thereby made it a lost tongue.

We humans are curious in that we like to hold on to our own. A partially universal language is Yiddish, a low-grade German jargon which includes Hebrew, Russian, Rumanian and Polish words, written in Hebrew letters and understood principally in countries where there is no reason for even a phase of German culture. Another such tongue is what Westerners like to call Mandarin, a dialect of Chinese spoken in the North but which an official needed to know anywhere and which, many could not speak but made their ideas known by writing the characters on the palms of their hands with a finger.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook

Cold westerly winds dropped the temperatures into the 30s over the northwest counties of Ohio before daybreak today.

The bright sunshine and balmy breezes, which pushed the temperatures up to 70 at Cincinnati and 58 at Cleveland Sunday, were being swept away by a new cold front arriving in Ohio this morning.

The colder weather moved down from the Great Plains since Sunday and was being pushed along by winds of 15 to 25 miles per hour.

Some snow flurries are expected with the change to colder weather. The flurries are indicated for the northern counties of the state later today. Snow flurries also are likely along Lake Erie and over the hills of Northeast Ohio tonight and Tuesday, while dry weather will prevail over other sections of the state.

Early today Cleveland reported a temperature of 51, Columbus had 49, Cincinnati 53 and Toledo 57.

NORTHERN OHIO —Temperatures will average two to four degrees below normal. Normal high 35, normal low 17-21. Much colder Tuesday, warming trend Wednesday and Thursday, colder again Friday. Snow flurries Tuesday, again late Thursday and Friday.

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO —Temperatures will average five to eight degrees below normal. Normal high 38-41, normal low 21-25. Much colder tonight and Tuesday, moderating temperatures Thursday, colder Friday and Saturday. Snow flurries likely in some sections Tuesday, rain or snow about Thursday night.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — American political parties are like popular fronts that let factions gang up under one tent and one label and, in public, gloss over their differences.

This doesn't solve the problem of how to achieve unity on the issues—so the public can know what to expect when they proclaim a party program—but it keeps them in business.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower had his hands full with his own divided Republicans when he was in office. President Kennedy is having the same trouble with his Democrats.

Kennedy ignored the desertion from his ranks when the House Rules Committee—where Democrats outnumber Republicans 10 to 5—voted to kill his idea for a new department of urban affairs and housing.

It was wrecked because four Southern Democrats joined the five Republicans to vote against it. Kennedy ignored what the Democrats did, blundered the Republicans and promptly proposed establishment of the urban department through his Reorganization Act powers.

Likewise last week the Republicans, whose only real unity is in trying to beat the Democrats, blithely skipped over their own divisions to criticize the opposition.

Speakers at the dinners which both parties hold are usually long on generalities and short on specifics.

Eisenhower pointed out, rather ruefully it seemed, that in the past 30 years the Republicans have held the presidency only eight years and control of Congress only four.

"Why, with so much to offer that is logical and sound does the electorate choose to buy the inferior product of the opposition?" he asked. The main answer lay in faulty "sales tactics" by the Republicans, he contended.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller accused Kennedy of fakery in blaming the Republicans for killing the department of urban affairs instead of pointing a finger at the Democrats who broke ranks to block him in the House Rules Committee.

Rockefeller said it was a subterfuge to bypass the states and "gain direct political control over the nation's big cities." Democrats answered Rockefeller on this in a hurry, saying that when he was President Eisenhower's chairman of an advisory committee on governmental organization, Rockefeller had recommended creating a similar department of urban affairs.

It was Rockefeller himself who best illustrated division among Republicans.

When he started to speak at a fund raising dinner in Des Moines—over a closed TV circuit—some Republicans at a dinner in Washington booed him. They later applauded when he attacked Kennedy.

Last week Kennedy wondered out loud about who is "giving the leadership direction" to the Republicans.

It's not Rockefeller, who some Republicans think is too liberal. It's not Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Some Republicans think he's too reactionary.

It's hardly former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has taken himself out of the 1964 presidential race, and is busy running for the governorship of California. At this point it would seem, after the fund-raising dinners, if the Republicans have a leader it must be Eisenhower.

Hope High for Steel Industry Peace

NEW YORK (AP)—Hopes for labor peace in the steel industry are mounting as production increases and optimism is voiced by government, union and management spokesmen.

All seemed to feel that this is no time for a replay of the long strike of 1959. Prospects that 1962 will be a good business year depend in large measure on whether steel production goes uninterrupted.

Contracts expire June 30 and already feelers have gone out for an early start on negotiations under the prodding of the government.

Roger M. Blough, chairman of United States Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer, said he finds "the atmosphere conducive to an early resolution of negotiations."

But he indicated that management won't go along with any union demand for a 32-hour week. And, in reporting that his company's 1961 profits were the lowest since 1952, he emphasized that "costs have been going up while there's been no increase in prices."

The United Steelworkers Union scheduled a meeting of its policy committee in Pittsburgh next week. Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said this "looks like a response to our appeal for early bargaining."

Goldberg told the Joint Congressional Economic Committee he was confident that "a demonstration of industrial statesmanship" on both sides will prevent a strike.

Production during the week posted its eighth week-to-week gain, interrupted only by Christmas week. Output totaled 2,390,000 tons, an estimated 79.4 per cent of capacity. Steel men said users apparently aren't building inventories as much as expected in anticipation of a possible strike but are using up most of their orders.

Their biggest customer, the automobile industry, continued to use steel at a heavy rate. Production during the week was estimated at 139,000 passenger cars, compared with 141,498 the previous week and 100,712 a year ago.

President Kennedy called for an investigation of the multibillion-dollar emergency stockpiling program. He wants the Senate to look into contracts and profits.

He told his news conference that the program had accumulated $7.7 billion worth of materials, which he described as exceeding emergency requirements by nearly $3.4 billion. He said he had ordered an end to acquisitions for the stockpile except for three minor items which he did not identify. He cited the supplies of aluminum and nickel as especially excessive.

A vast development of recreation facilities appeared in the making to meet the needs of the people as their leisure time and income increases.

A special Outdoor Recreation Resources and Review Commission laid a broad program before President Kennedy and Congress, but left it up to them to decide how much money will be needed to provide areas near where the masses live.

The commission estimated that by 1976 the work week will average 36 hours and consumer income will have risen from the current $354 billion to $706 billion.

Labor Secretary Goldberg reported that in January the unemployment rate fell to 5.8 per cent of the labor force. This was the first time since September 1960 that it had dropped below 6 per cent.

Unemployed totaled 4,663,000, a decline of 722,000 from the January 1961 figure. The number of employed reached a January record of 65,058,000, up 606,000 from a year earlier.

Goldberg said the figures "confirm the continuing improvement in the economy while at the same time emphasizing the fact that our problem of hard-core unemployment is not yet diminishing."

Stock sales during the week totaled 18,716,310 shares, up from 17,819,640 the previous week but down from the 24,397,172 shares of the comparable 1961 week. Bond sales totaled $32,135,000 par value compared with $28,959,000 for the previous week and $39,016,000 for the comparable week last year.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges urged businessmen to make a greater effort to increase exports.

"Expanding markets abroad are essential to our greater growth at home," he said. "It is also imperative that we increase our exports to solve our serious balance-of-payments problem."

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook.

Cold westerly winds dropped the temperatures into the 30s over the northwest counties of Ohio before daybreak today.

The bright sunshine and balmy breezes, which pushed the temperatures up to 70 at Cincinnati and 58 at Cleveland Sunday, were being swept away by a new cold front arriving in Ohio this morning.

The colder weather moved down from the Great Plains since Sunday and was being pushed along by winds of 15 to 25 miles per hour.

Some snow flurries are expected with the change to colder weather. The flurries are indicated for the northern counties of the state later today. Snow flurries also are likely along Lake Erie and over the hills of Northeastern Ohio tonight and Tuesday, while dry weather will prevail over other sections of the state.

Early today Cleveland reported a temperature of 51, Columbus had 49, Cincinnati 53 and Toledo 37.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS
NORTHERN OHIO —Temperatures will average two to four degrees below normal. Normal high 35, normal low 17-21. Much colder Tuesday, warming trend Wednesday and Thursday, colder again Friday. Snow flurries Tuesday, again late Thursday and Friday.

SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO —Temperatures will average five to eight degrees below normal. Normal high 38-41, normal low 21-25. Much colder tonight and Tuesday, moderating temperatures Thursday, colder Friday and Saturday. Snow flurries likely in some sections Tuesday, rain or snow about Thursday night.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — American political parties are like popular fronts that let factions gang up under one tent and one label and, in public, gloss over their differences.

This doesn't solve the problem of how to achieve unity on the issues—so the public can know what to expect when they proclaim a party program—but it keeps them in business.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower had his hands full with his own divided Republicans when he was in office. President Kennedy is having the same trouble with his Democrats.

Kennedy ignored the desertion from his ranks when the House Rules Committee—where Democrats outnumber Republicans 10 to 5—voted to kill his idea for a new department of urban affairs and housing.

It was wrecked because four Southern Democrats joined the five Republicans to vote against it. Kennedy ignored what the Democrats did, blisured the Republicans and promptly proposed establishment of the urban department through his Reorganization Act powers.

Likewise last week the Republicans, whose only real unity is in trying to beat the Democrats, blithely skipped over their own divisions to criticize the opposition.

Speakers at the dinners which both parties hold are usually long on generalities and short on specifics.

Eisenhower pointed out, rather ruefully it seemed, that in the past 30 years the Republicans have held the presidency only eight years and control of Congress only four.

"Why, with so much to offer that is logical and sound does the electorate choose to buy the inferior product of the opposition?" he asked. The main answer lay in faulty "sales tactics" by the Republicans, he contended.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller accused Kennedy of fakery in blaming the Republicans for killing the department of urban affairs instead of pointing a finger at the Democrats who broke ranks to block him in the House Rules Committee.

Rockefeller said it was a subterfuge to bypass the states and "gain direct political control over the nation's big cities." Democrats answered Rockefeller on this in a hurry, saying that when he was President Eisenhower's chairman of an advisory committee on governmental organization, Rockefeller had recommended creating a similar department of urban affairs.

It was Rockefeller himself who best illustrated division among Republicans.

When he started to speak at a fund raising dinner in Des Moines—over a closed TV circuit—some Republicans at a dinner in Washington booed him. They later applauded when he attacked Kennedy.

Last week Kennedy wondered out loud about who is "giving the leadership direction" to the Republicans.

It's not Rockefeller, who some Republicans think is too liberal. It's not Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona. Some Republicans think he's too reactionary.

It's hardly former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has taken himself out of the 1964 presidential race, and is busy running for the governorship of California. At this point it would seem, after the fund-raising dinners, if the Republicans have a leader it must be Eisenhower.

Hope High for Steel Industry Peace

NEW YORK (AP)—Hopes for labor peace in the steel industry are mounting as production increases and optimism is voiced by government, union and management spokesmen.

All seemed to feel that this is no time for a replay of the long strike of 1959. Prospects that 1962 will be a good business year depend in large measure on whether steel production goes uninterrupted.

Contracts expire June 30 and already feelers have gone out for an early start on negotiations under the prodding of the government.

Roger M. Blough, chairman of United States Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer, said he finds "the atmosphere conducive to an early resolution of negotiations."

But he indicated that management won't go along with any union demand for a 32-hour week. And, in reporting that his company's 1961 profits were the lowest since 1952, he emphasized that "costs have been going up while there's been no increase in prices."

The United Steelworkers Union scheduled a meeting of its policy committee in Pittsburgh next week. Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said this "looks like a response to our appeal for early bargaining."

Goldberg told the Joint Congressional Economic Committee he was confident that "a demonstration of industrial statesmanship" on both sides will prevent a strike.

Production during the week posted its eighth week-to-week gain, interrupted only by Christmas week. Output totaled 2,390,000 tons, an estimated 79.4 per cent of capacity. Steel men said users apparently aren't building inventories as much as expected in anticipation of a possible strike but are using up most of their orders.

Their biggest customer, the automobile industry, continued to use steel at a heavy rate. Production during the week was estimated at 139,000 passenger cars, compared with 141,498 the previous week and 100,712 a year ago.

President Kennedy called for an investigation of the multibillion-dollar emergency stockpiling program. He wants the Senate to look into contracts and profits.

He told his news conference that the program had accumulated $7.7 billion worth of materials, which he described as exceeding emergency requirements by nearly $3.4 billion. He said he had ordered an end to acquisitions for the stockpile except for three minor items which he did not identify. He cited the supplies of aluminum and nickel as especially excessive.

A vast development of recreation facilities appeared in the making to meet the needs of the people as their leisure time and income increases.

A special Outdoor Recreation Resources and Review Commission laid a broad program before President Kennedy and Congress, but left it up to them to decide how much money will be needed to provide areas near where the masses live.

The commission estimated that by 1976 the work week will average 36 hours and consumer income will have risen from the current $354 billion to $706 billion.

Labor Secretary Goldberg reported that in January the unemployment rate fell to 5.8 per cent.

Warren County Eyes Flood Control Plans

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Warren County commissioners are considering ways to prevent floods on Twin Creek similar to the one that caused 20 families to leave their homes last month.

Chairman Cecil Linkous said the county won't be able to raise its share of a $343,000 proposed flood control program that would furnish complete flood protection along the creek.

A few tribes in Netherlands New Guinea still practice cannibalism.

cent of the labor force. This was the first time since September 1960 that it had dropped below 6 per cent.

Unemployed totaled 4,663,000, a decline of 722,000 from the January 1961 figure. The number of employed reached a January record of 65,058,000, up 606,000 from a year earlier.

Goldberg said the figures "confirm the continuing improvement in the economy while at the same time emphasizing the fact that our problem of hard-core unemployment is not yet diminishing."

Stock sales during the week totaled 18,716,310 shares, up from 17,819,640 the previous week but down from the 24,397,172 shares of the comparable 1961 week. Bond sales totaled $32,135,000 par value compared with $28,959,000 for the previous week and $39,016,000 for the comparable week last year.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges urged businessmen to make a greater effort to increase exports.

"Expanding markets abroad are essential to our greater growth at home," he said. "It is also imperative that we increase our exports to solve our serious balance-of-payments problem."

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Possible, But Improbable!

DEAR ABBY: I'm a college graduate—my fiancée isn't. I like the theater—she falls asleep at plays. Art interests me—it seems ridiculous to her. Certain films move me—she yawns. Literature fascinates me—she wouldn't reach for a book if it was about to fall on her head. Yet, darn it, she's a very human type with sound ideas about raising a family—the kind I'd like. When I get all set to tell her the wedding is off, I take one look and—zowie—I'm hooked again. Could I swallow some of my interests, marry her and be happy?

FRED

DEAR FRED: You could "swallow" some of your interests, but hardly this long list. You are trying to say that this girl would make a wonderful mother but you are intellectually mismatched. Unless you can educate her to your tastes, don't say "I do"—because chances are, you won't.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a project and the young woman who lives one apartment over from me is my problem. When my clothesline is not in use, she always asks me if she can use it. I am not a selfish person but I hate to let her use my lines because her clothes never look clean and I don't want people to think they are mine. What should I do?

GOOD NEIGHBOR
DEAR NEIGHBOR: Be a really good neighbor and give the young woman some helpful tips on how to get her clothes as clean-looking as yours. (What a spot for a commercial!) This is even more generous than just giving her the same old line.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this with the hope of seeing it in print as a warning to other well-meaning mothers. We have a beautiful, 17-year old daughter. We tried to raise her right and thought we were doing a fine job, as she was an obedient child, an honor student and a leader in church activities. We failed somewhere because she brought us the news that she was in trouble with a high school boy. In my grief, I confided our problem to two friends, begging them not to repeat it. I told them because I needed their prayers. Abby, these two friends told their daughters, who spread it all over school. Soon the whole town knew it. Our telephone started ringing and our daughter was like a hunted animal. On the verge of a nervous breakdown, we sent her to a Home for Unwed Mothers. She can never come back to this town. I blame no one but myself. Please tell other mothers to do their praying alone.

Guild No. 20 Hears Address By Starkey to us and didn't seem as "far out" as some critics implied.

One designer solved the problem of getting maximum use of minimum space in a one room city apartment by adding a balcony floor. Tucked away under the over-hanging deck were storage units and a foam rubber couch that could be rolled out of sight or pulled into the room for extra seating.

Another designer featured a two-level study with a sunken reading "retreat". It used a built-in foam rubber couch as a room divider to separate the music and conversation area from the library.

Making use of the Japanese influence in today's design, another designer used a dais in his setting of a modern studio apartment to create a separate area for relaxation or dining. A love seat, sleep sofa and a roomy coffee table for informal meals were the main items of furniture. Plump floor cushions provided extra seating.

No matter how it was handled, almost every decorator emphasized the split level motif. The use of tiled flooring was very popular. It is amazing how the tile flooring created dramatic contrasts. It is an idea that a home-maker should consider carefully when furnishing or re-furnishing.

One decorator made good use of the material removed from old buildings that are being razed.

She took a spiral staircase, had it restored and used it to excellent effect to achieve her split level appearance.

Berger Guild To Begin Work on 1962 Bazaar

Members of Berger Hospital Guild No. 39 will meet at 8:30 p. m. today in the home of Mrs. Donald Hill, Knollwood Village.

Remember those heavenly biscuits Grandma used to take piping hot from the oven? What was her secret in making them so tender and flaky?

She had just the right touch in mixing and knew which shortening to use. Grandma chose lard when she wanted the tenderest and flakiest biscuits and pastry. Lard has the greatest shortening power of any plastic fat.

There are many ways you can vary those old fashioned baking powder biscuits. Topsy-Turvy Orange Nut Biscuits are rolled like a jelly roll with a cinnamon, sugar and nut filling. They're baked in muffin tins on top of a sweet orange rind mixture. When taken from the pans, you'll turn the biscuits over to find an orange topping.

Topsy-Turvy Orange-Nut Biscuits
2 cups sifted enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup orange juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1/4 cup lard
1 cup milk
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, salt and baking powder. Mix cinnamon and 1/4 cup sugar. Combine butter or margarine, orange juice, remaining 1/2 cup sugar and orange rind and cook 2 minutes. Pour sirup into 12 medium muffin pans. Cut lard into flour mixture. Add milk and stir until dough follows fork around bowl. Knead 1/2 minute. Roll dough into a 12x12-inch square. Sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar and nuts. Roll as for jelly roll. Slice 1 inch thick and place, cut side down, over orange mixture in each muffin pan. Bake in a very hot oven (450 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Yield: 12 biscuits.

Williamsport, Elks Earn Booster Wins

Scioto Elks and Williamsport Merchants rolled to wins in Booster Club cage league play yesterday at the National Guard Armory.

Williamsport, behind 15-12 at the end of the first quarter, went on to hit the century mark in a 100-41 conquest of Top Hat. Scioto, also trailing in the opening period, cut loose later for a 91-76 verdict over Kippy Kit.

Ron Jacobs was the chief point-maker for Williamsport with 24 markers. Sells and Palmer had 18 each. Lockard was the sparkplug for Top Hat with 32.

Taylor's 35 points was a determining factor for the Elks. Mickey with 24 and Sandy Hill 20 aided the effort.

KEITH MERRIN connected for 24 and Paul Sarchet 20 to show the way for Kippy Kit.

Two games scheduled Wednesday list Decree vs Ashville Merchants at 7 p. m. and Kippy Kit vs Circleville Swim Club to follow.

1,000 Teams Enter Ohio Pin Tourney

ZANESVILLE Ohio (AP)—Ohio's handicap bowling championship tournament, for the first time in its 58 years, has attracted an entry of more than 1,000 teams.

Virgil Furry of Columbus, secretary-treasurer of the state bowling association, said 1,007 five-man squads would compete in the event opening here Feb. 24.

Last year's tournament in Warren drew 952 teams. The 1963 event is scheduled for Youngstown and the 1964 site will be selected at the association's annual meeting here March 31.

Chief Ohio Cage Referee Dies at 51

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Funeral services for James Lympier, 51 president of the Ohio Association of Basketball Officials, will take place at 11 a. m. Wednesday morning in Mansfield.

Lympier collapsed and died Saturday night while refereeing a basketball game between Willard and Huron high schools in Willard. Services will be conducted at J. S. Finerock and Sons Funeral Home. Burial will be in Mansfield Memorial Park. Lympier leaves a widow and four daughters.

Fire Causes $250,000 In Damages in Piqua

PIQUA, Ohio (AP)—Officials were sifting through the remains of a three-story brick building in downtown Piqua today for the cause of a fire which destroyed the structure and caused an estimated $250,000 damage. The blaze broke out early Sunday in the Buecker Building.

Bob Goalby finished 23 under par when he won the 1961 St. Petersburg Open. It was the best PGA showing of the year.

Walnut Trips Walnut Ridge In 73-56 Tilt

Walnut Twp. downed Walnut Ridge of Franklin County 73-56 Saturday night at Walnut for the second win of the season for the Tigers.

Larry Leist, the Tiger's jack of all trades, scored from all positions to gain top honors for the night with 29 points. Duane Sheets, hitting well from outside, with 18 and Neff with 14 offered able assistance in the Walnut win.

The Key man for the Franklin Countians was Sheets with 16 points.

The Walnut Twp. reserves copped their game, 33-26.

Walnut's next game is a non-league bout with Monroe Friday night on the Walnut court.

Broncos Earn At Least Share Of DV League

The Ashville Broncos, Pickaway County Basketball League champs, assured themselves of a tie in the Darby Valley League Saturday night by defeating Greenview, 73-50, on the latter's floor.

All-Ohio candidate Tom Rathburn played a brilliant game, gathering in 28 rebounds and leading the Broncos' scoring attack with 24 points. Guards Jim Rathburn, 14 points, and Dick Hollenback, 23 points, were important factors in what Coach Russ Gregg called a team victory.

The Broncos, after getting off to a slow start which saw them leading by seven, 33-26, at the half put the game on ice with a 21 point spurge in the third quarter as they held Greenview to a scant eight points.

Ashville lost the opening reserve tilt, 59-38.

Scioto Tumbles Holy Family for Tenth Victory

Scioto's Buffaloes, rolling to their tenth win of the season, blasted visiting Holy Family Saturday night, 83-49.

Coach Charlie Baxter's crew roared to a 21-6 lead in the opening period and had smooth sailing the remainder of the tilt. Three men in double figures gave the Buffaloes all the spark needed.

Terry Melvin, hitting well on jump shots from the side, paced all scoring with 24. Bob White-side battled away from around the key for 20 markers in addition to grabbing 30 rebounds. Lee Murphy found the range for 16 points.

Nicholoff was top man for Holy Family with 18 points. Fleming added 12.

The Buffaloes made it a double win by taking a 45-38 decision in the preliminary.

55-Game Spree Faces Ohio College Cagers This Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 55-game spree, biggest of the season, faces Ohio's collegiate cagers this week.

And when the smoke clears away, there could be some hefty changes in the league and independent standings.

Ohio State's top-ranked powerhouse, fresh from last week's one-sided wins over Purdue and Northwestern, tangles tonight with Iowa and Saturday with Minnesota—both on the Buckeye boards. Ohio is an odds-on choice to run its record to 18-0, its conference standing to 8-0, its three-year conference streak to 23 to tie the all-time record, and its home-floor stretch to 32.

Bowling Green's once-beaten Falcons, leading the Mid-American with 7-0 to Ohio University's runner-up 4-2, could run into trouble. The Bee-Gees go against Toledo's third placers (3-2) at Toledo Wednesday night, and the Rockets are always tough on the home boards. Bowling Green beat Toledo 66-60 on the Falcon floor.

Saturday the Bee-Gees invade Marshall's lair, and the Thundering Herd enhanced its standing last week by wrecking favored Western Michigan 89-76. That kept the Broncos from tying Ohio U. for the second spot, and moved Marshall to a 2-4 conference standing. Bowling Green has had a couple of close ones on the road (73-72 over Western Michigan and 61-62 over Ohio U.), so the storm signals are flying.

Ohio Wesleyan, topping the Ohio Conference with 11-1 after Saturday's 64-57 win over Mount Union, entertains Denison (6-4) Wednesday and Akron (8-3) Saturday. Wittenberg's second-placers (8-2) visit Heidelberg (2-7) Wednesday, and then battle Muskingum (7-2) for the runner-up spot Saturday at Springfield.

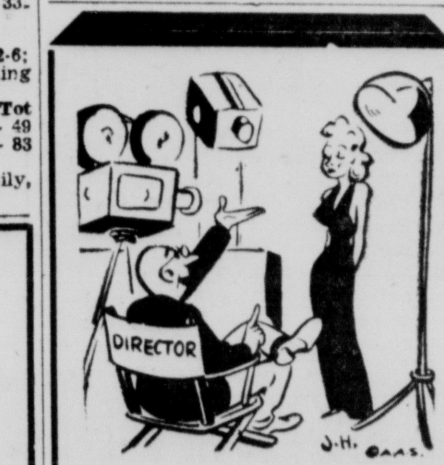

Cincinnati, fighting to stay in the Missouri Valley race, should pick up a pair of conference wins. The Bearcats, 6-2 to leading Bradley's 7-1, invade St. Louis (2-4) Thursday, and Tulsa (2-5) Saturday. The 'Cats nicked Drake and North Texas State last week in the loop, in addition to a non-league win over Houston, for an overall 17-2 record which kept them in the nation's top 10. Bradley invades Cincinnati Feb. 19, and the conference outcome hinges on that one.

Kenyon's Lords surprised everyone last week by defeating Akron. Wooster and Hiram in a row for five straight after losing 7 of the first 11.

Hutchinson Wins Grayson Award

CINCINNATI (AP)—Fred Hutchinson, manager of the National League champion Cincinnati Reds, was named first recipient of the Frank Grayson Award today, as the man who made the greatest contribution to baseball in the Cincinnati area in 1961.

The award was made by the Cincinnati chapter of the Baseball Writers of America. It is named for a former member of the association, a former baseball writer for the old Cincinnati Times-Star. Hutchinson and other present and past Reds players singled out by the baseball writers will be honored at a testimonial dinner Saturday.

No Change Is Made in ABL Standing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Six of the seven American Basketball League teams were in action twice each over the weekend but none made any progress except to move closer to the end of the season. Pittsburgh was idle.

In consecutive doubleheaders at Cleveland, San Francisco defeated the New York Tapers 113-109 Saturday and then dropped a 109-107 decision to the Chicago Majors Sunday while Cleveland whipped the Majors 120-114 and then lost to New York 112-109.

Hawaii and Kansas City split a pair with the Chiefs taking Saturday's game on their home court 100-91 and the Steers winning at Los Angeles Sunday 105-92.

Hank Whitney dropped in the winning basket with nine seconds remaining in Chicago's triumph over San Francisco. Hershell Turner led the Majors with 23 points. Dan Swartz scored 31 points in leading New York to its victory over Cleveland. Dick Barnett led the Pipers with 35.

In beating the Chiefs Sunday, the Steers were forced to put down a late rally. Bill Spivey tallied 30 points for Hawaii.

Marine Chalks Pair Of 16-Foot Vaults

BOSTON (AP)—Marine Lance Cpl John Uelses owns the first two 16-foot pole vaults in track history.

The 24-year-old German-born Marine, stationed at Quantico, Va., vaulted 16 feet 1/4 inches in the Millrose Games at New York Friday night. A shadow was cast on the performance because the bar was knocked down before the height could be remeasured after his vault.

So Uelses went out Saturday night and vaulted 16 feet 3/4 inches in Boston on his first try at the height.

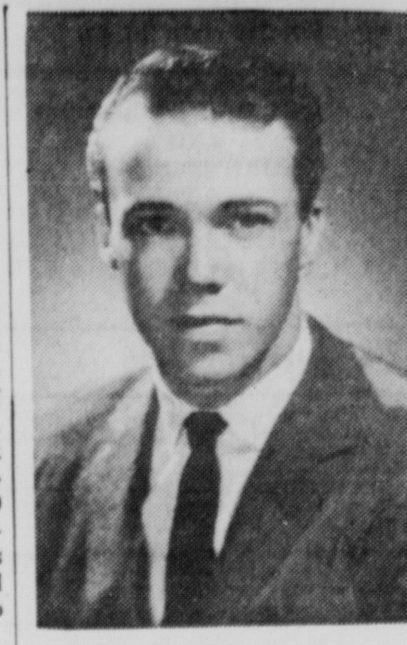

"I almost stopped on the runway, just before I got to the take-off pit," Uelses confided afterward. "I felt something in my right leg at just about my check mark."

Mrs. Pursley Eyes World Skate Title

BOSTON (AP)—Barbara Roles Pursley, making a comeback at 20, probably will be the favorite to win the women's title in the world figure skating championships in Prague next month.

But things won't be easy for the 1960 Olympic bronze medal winner who retired to marry and have a baby. She will have to meet the Netherlands' European champion Sjouke Dykstra, who won the silver medal in the Olympics.

Mrs. Pursley of Arcadia, Calif., won the national title Sunday before a capacity crowd of 4,000 at the Boston College rink. She was rated first on the cards of all five judges.

Birdie Hunt Pays Off for Arn Palmer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The recent oft-repeated query, "What's wrong with Arnold Palmer's golf game?" seems pretty well squelched.

Palmer, playing like the Palmer of National Open and Masters fame in 1960, put on a dazzling birdie hunt to win the $50,000 Palm Springs Classic Sunday. The victory was worth $5,300.

He climaxed the 5-round, 90-hole marathon with a 3-under par 69 for a total score of 342, 17 blows under par for the long haul at the plush par 72 Bermuda Dunes Country Club and four other courses used in the tournament.

Palmer started the round three strokes behind the leader, Gene Littler. He ran off a string of five successive birdies starting on the fifth hole, caught Littler on the eighth and went two ahead of Gene on the ninth.

This was Palmer's second win in the three $50,000 desert classics and his first victory since the British Open last July.

Palmer leads the tournament gypsies to the $35,000 Phoenix, Ariz., Open. Then he will vacation until the Baton Rouge, La., Open, which he won last year.

Player left Sunday night for his Johannesburg, South Africa, home where he'll rest about five weeks. Player's 71 for 352 netted $525.

Happiest man was former U.S. Open champion Dick Mayer. He got to keep the entire $50,000 bonus he earned with a hole-in-one Saturday. There were no more aces so Mayer didn't have to split the money.

Hialeah-stabled horses owned by publishers John S. Knight and Marshall Field Jr. are aptly named Journalette, Mr. Slug, Editor-in-Chief and Compositor.

Faculty Teams Set for Battle

Teays Valley Cagers Are Defending Champs

The finer points of basketball will be amply displayed Tuesday night when the annual March of Dimes Faculty Basketball tournament gets under way at the Ashville High School gym.

Teachers of the city and county will attempt to show their younger school counterparts how the game is played. Some fast action is promised if the teachers' physical fitness is all that it's cracked up to be.

All proceeds will go to the Pickaway County Chapter's March of Dimes campaign. The cage tournament will be directed by David (Red) Crawford, last year's March campaign head.

Four teams are scheduled to take part. They are Circleville, Logan Elm, Westfall and Teays Valley.

TEAYS VALLEY, composed of teachers from Scioto, Walnut and Ashville, is the defending champion. The successful tournament was played at Circleville High School last year.

Early reports indicate that Teays Valley will be hard to unseat as title holders. However, Logan Elm, Westfall and Circleville all are expected to floor improved teams.

Tomorrow's schedule calls for Circleville to meet Logan Elm at 7 p. m. and Westfall to take on Teays Valley immediately following. The championship and consolation tilts are slated the following Tuesday unless a change in schedule is required.

A handsome rotating trophy will be awarded to the winning team this year.

Heavy Scioto Downs Card Opens June 1

Scioto Downs will open its gates June 1 to start the 1962 night harness racing season in central Ohio. It will be the beginning of 86 continuous nights of harness racing at the plush suburban Columbus five-eighths mile oval.

Scioto Downs will present 44 nights of racing through July 21. The Mid-America Racing Association (MARA) will take over on July 23 and continue for 42 nights through September 8.

The announcement of the inauguration of the $50,000 Scioto Downs Challenge Stakes for 2, 3, and 4 year olds at both the trotting and pacing gaits has set the sport of harness racing buzzing. The first of the Challenge Stakes will be raced this year, with the eligible 2 Yr-Old trotters going postward for a purse estimated at $8,000 on July 13, and the 2 Yr-Old pacers vying for an estimated purse of $8,000 on July 20. These colts will be eligible to the 3 Yr. Old division of the Challenge Stakes in 1963, and the 4 Yr-Old division in 1964.

Greatly complimenting the Challenge Stakes at Scioto Downs this year is a vast array of rich Early Closing Stakes. The headline is the famed HTA Pace scheduled for Friday June 8 Carrying an estimated purse of $10,000, the HTA Pace, sponsored by the Harness Tracks of America, promises to attract the greatest 4 Yr-Old side-wheelers in the sport.

The now retired Adios Butler still holds the track pacing record at Scioto Downs of 1:59 4-5, set in the rain in the 1960 HTA Pace. The event was won last year by Sampson Direct in 2:00 1-5.

PCC Golf Unit Eyes Program

The newly appointed golf committee at the Pickaway Country Club has outlined an entirely new program of events and activities for the coming season.

Initial plans were discussed at a meeting last week. George Fhurman, manager of the local J. C. Penney Store, is chairman of the golf committee.

Attending the planning session were the seven new committee members. They are Dean Bushee, Dean MacFadden, Bob MacFadden, H. o w a r d Davies, Wink Wellington, Snap Ankrom and Wendell Christie.

Also taking part in the meeting were Tom Cassidy, newly appointed golf pro, and Doug Cotterman, last year's committee chairman.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 55-game spree, biggest of the season, faces Ohio's collegiate cagers this week.

And when the smoke clears away, there could be some hefty changes in the league and independent standings.

Ohio State's top-ranked powerhouse, fresh from last week's one-sided wins over Purdue and Northwestern, tangles tonight with Iowa and Saturday with Minnesota at the Buckeye boards.

Ohio is an odds-on choice to run its record to 18-0, its conference standing to 8-0, its three-year conference streak to 23 to tie the all-time record, and its home-floor stretch to 32.

Bowling Green's once-beaten Falcons, leading the Mid-American with 7-0 to Ohio University's runner-up 4-2, could run into trouble. The Bee-Gees go against Toledo's third placers (3-2) at Toledo Wednesday night, and the Rockets are always tough on the home boards. Bowling Green beat Toledo 66-60 on the Falcon floor.

Saturday the Bee-Gees invade Marshall's lair, and the Thundering Herd enhanced its standing last week by wrecking favored Western Michigan 89-76. That kept the Broncos from tying Ohio U. for the second spot, and moved Marshall to a 2-4 conference standing. Bowling Green has had a couple of close ones on the road (73-72 over Western Michigan and 64-62 over Ohio U.), so the storm signals are flying.

Ohio Wesleyan, topping the Ohio Conference with 11-1 after Saturday's 64-57 win over Mount Union, entertains Denison (6-4) Wednesday and Akron (8-3) Saturday. Wittenberg's second-placers (8-2) visit Heidelberg (2-7) Wednesday, and then battle Muskingum (7-2) for the runner-up spot Saturday at Springfield.

Cincinnati, fighting to stay in the Missouri Valley race, should pick up a pair of conference wins. The Bearcats, 6-2 to leading Bradley's 7-1, invade St. Louis (2-4) Thursday, and Tulsa (2-5) Saturday. The 'Cats nicked Drake and North Texas State last week in the loop, in addition to a non-league win over Houston, for an overall 17-2 record which kept them in the nation's top 10. Bradley invades Cincinnati Feb. 19, and the conference outcome hinges on that one.

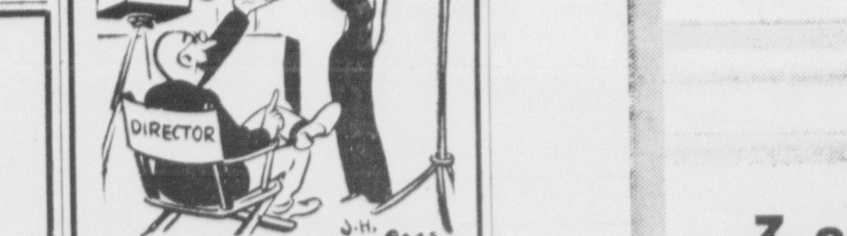

Kenyon's Lords surprised everyone last week by defeating Akron, Wooster and Hiram in a row for five straight after losing 7 of the first 11.

Hutchinson Wins Grayson Award

CINCINNATI (AP)—Fred Hutchinson, manager of the National League champion Cincinnati Reds, was named first recipient of the Frank Grayson Award today, as the man who made the greatest contribution to baseball in the Cincinnati area in 1961.

The award was made by the Cincinnati chapter of the Baseball Writers of America. It is named for a former member of the association, a former baseball writer for the old Cincinnati Times-Star.

Hutchinson and other present and past Reds players singled out by the baseball writers will be honored at a testimonial dinner Saturday.

No Change Is Made in ABL Standing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Six of the seven American Basketball League teams were in action twice each over the weekend but none made any progress except to move closer to the end of the season. Pittsburgh was idle.

In consecutive doubleheaders at Cleveland, San Francisco defeated the New York Tapers 113-109 Saturday and then dropped a 109-107 decision to the Chicago Majors Sunday while Cleveland whipped the Majors 120-114 and then lost to New York 112-109.

Hawaii and Kansas City split a pair with the Chiefs taking Saturday's game on their home court 100-91 and the Steers winning at Los Angeles Sunday 105-92.

Hank Whitney dropped in the winning basket with nine seconds remaining in Chicago's triumph over San Francisco. Hersell Turner led the Majors with 23 points. Dan Swartz scored 31 points in leading New York to its victory over Cleveland. Dick Barnett led the Pipers with 35.

In beating the Chiefs Sunday, the Steers were forced to put down a late rally. Bill Spivey tallied 30 points for Hawaii.

Marine Chalks Pair Of 16-Foot Vaults

BOSTON (AP)—Marine Lance Cpl John Uelses owns the first two 16-foot pole vaults in track history.

The 24-year-old German-born Marine, stationed at Quantico, Va., vaulted 16 feet 1/4 inches in the Millrose Games at New York Friday night. A shadow was cast on the performance because the bar was knocked down before the height could be remeasured after his vault.

So Uelses went out Saturday night and vaulted 16 feet 3/4 inches in Boston on his first try at the height.

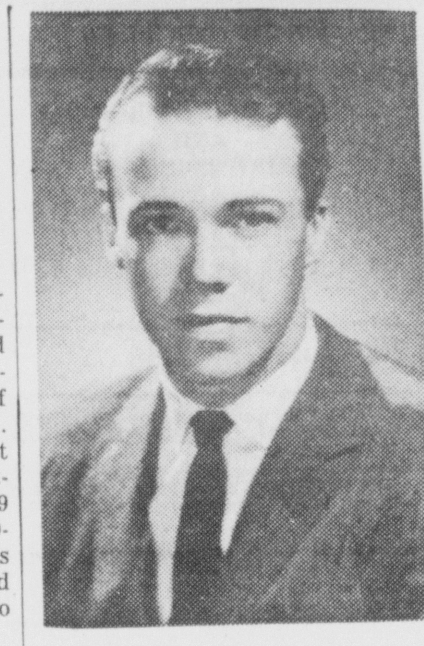

"I almost stopped on the runway, just before I got to the take-off pit," Uelses confided afterward. "I felt something in my right leg at just about my check mark."

Mrs. Pursley Eyes World Skate Title

BOSTON (AP)—Barbara Roles Pursley, making a comeback at 20, probably will be the favorite to win the women's title in the world figure skating championships in Prague next month.

But things won't be easy for the 1960 Olympic bronze medal winner who retired to marry and have a baby. She will have to meet the Netherlands' European champion Sjouke Dykstra, who won the silver medal in the Olympics.

Mrs. Pursley of Arcadia, Calif., won the national title Sunday before a capacity crowd of 4,000 at the Boston College rink. She was rated first on the cards of all five judges.

NEW GOLF PRO—Tom Cassidy has been named new golf pro at the Pickaway Country Club. He served at PCC last year as assistant pro. Cassidy, who lives on S. Pickaway St., succeeds Pro Bob Biscioti who has indicated plans to assume the pro job at London.

Birdie Hunt Pays Off for Arn Palmer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The recent oft-repeated query, "What's wrong with Arnold Palmer's golf game?" seems pretty well squelched.

Palmer, playing like the Palmer of National Open and Masters fame in 1960, put on a dazzling birdie hunt to win the $50,000 Palm Springs Classic Sunday. The victory was worth $5,300.

He climaxed the 5-round, 90-hole marathon with a 3-under par 69 for a total score of 342, 17 blows under par for the long haul at the plush par 72 Bermuda Dunes Country Club and four other courses used in the tournament.

Palmer started the round three strokes behind the leader, Gene Littler. He ran off a string of five successive birdies starting on the fifth hole, caught Littler on the eighth and went two ahead of Gene on the ninth.

This was Palmer's second win in the three $50,000 desert classics and his first victory since the British Open last July.

Palmer leads the tournament gypsies to the $35,000 Phoenix, Ariz., Open. Then he will vacation until the Baton Rouge, La., Open, which he won last year.

Player left Sunday night for his Johannesburg, South Africa, home where he'll rest about five weeks. Player's 71 for 352 netted $525.

Happiest man was former U.S. Open champion Dick Mayer. He got to keep the entire $50,000 bonus he earned with a hole-in-one Saturday. There were no more aces so Mayer didn't have to split the money.

Hialeah-stabled horses owned by publishers John S. Knight and Marshall Field Jr. are aptly named Journalette, Mr. Slug, Editorialist and Compositor.

Faculty Teams Set for Battle

Teays Valley Cagers Are Defending Champs
The finer points of basketball will be amply displayed Tuesday night when the annual March of Dimes Faculty Basketball tournament gets under way at the Ashville High School gym.

Teachers of the city and county will attempt to show their younger school counterparts how the game is played. Some fast action is promised if the teachers' physical fitness is all that it's cracked up to be.

All proceeds will go to the Pickaway County Chapter's March of Dimes campaign. The cage tourney will be directed by David (Red) Crawford, last year's March campaign head.

Four teams are scheduled to take part. They are Circleville, Logan Elm, Westfall and Teays Valley.

TEAYS VALLEY, composed of teachers from Scioto, Walnut and Ashville, is the defending champion. The successful tournament was played at Circleville High School last year.

Early reports indicate that Teays Valley will be hard to unseat as title holders. However, Logan Elm, Westfall and Circleville all are expected to floor improved teams.

Tomorrow's schedule calls for Circleville to meet Logan Elm at 7 p. m. and Westfall to take on Teays Valley immediately following. The championship and consolation tilts are slated the following Tuesday unless a change in schedule is required.

A handsome rotating trophy will be awarded to the winning team this year.

QUESTIONS
1—Maurice Richard once won the leading scorer title in the National Hockey League. True or false?

2—What hockey mark does George Hainsworth hold?

3—What distinction does Red Horner, one-time Maple Leaf, hold?

HOOHEE? HE ranks with the all-time great goalies in pro hockey. This great Canadian net tender captured the coveted Vezina Trophy six times, the last time in 1950.

ANSWERS
1—True. Maurice Richard won the National Hockey League scoring title in 1944-45.

2—He has led the National Hockey League in goals in one season. He also holds the record for the most goals in one game.

3—False. He finished second (Hooheer: Bill Durnan).

Heavy Scioto Downs Card Opens June 1

Scioto Downs will open its gates June 1 to start the 1962 night harness racing season in central Ohio. It will be the beginning of 86 continuous nights of harness racing at the plush suburban Columbus five-eighths mile oval.

Scioto Downs will present 44 nights of racing through July 21. The Mid-America Racing Association (MARA) will take over on July 23 and continue for 42 nights through September 8.

The announcement of the inauguration of the $50,000 Scioto Downs Challenge Stakes for 2, 3, and 4 year olds at both the trotting and pacing gait has set the sport of harness racing buzzing. The first of the Challenge Stakes will be raced this year, with the eligible 2 Yr-Old trotters going postward for a purse estimated at $8,000 on July 13, and the 2 Yr-Old pacers vying for an estimated purse of $8,000 on July 20. These colts will be eligible to the 3 Yr-Old division of the Challenge Stakes in 1963, and the 4 Yr-Old division in 1964.

Greatly complimenting the Challenge Stakes at Scioto Downs this year is a vast array of rich Early Closing Stakes. The headline is the famed HTA Pace scheduled for Friday June 8 Carrying an estimated purse of $10,000, the HTA Pace, sponsored by the Harness Tracks of America, promises to attract the greatest 4 Yr-Old side-wheelers in the sport.

The now retired Adios Butler still holds the track pacing record at Scioto Downs of 1:59 4-5, set in the rain in the 1960 HTA Pace. The event was won last year by Sampson Direct in 2:00 1-5.

PCC Golf Unit Eyes Program

The newly appointed golf committee at the Pickaway Country Club has outlined an entirely new program of events and activities for the coming season.

Initial plans were discussed at a meeting last week. George Thurman, manager of the local J. C. Penney Store, is chairman of the golf committee.

Attending the planning session were the seven new committee members. They are Dean Bushee, Dean MacFadden, Bob MacFadden, Howard Davies, Wink Wellington, Snap Ankrom and Wendell Christie.

Also taking part in the meeting were Tom Cassidy, newly appointed golf pro, and Doug Cotterman, last year's committee chairman.

best-looking buys...now in each size

1. Compact COMET
2. New standard-size METEOR
3. Big, luxurious MONTEREY

3 sizzlers in 3 sizes! Now at your Mercury dealer's!

1. Compact Mercury COMET. Lively, frisky, nimble! Comet scoots up hills, scampers through traffic. A choice of two engines. For extra power—the brilliant Mercury Comet 170 "6". For extra economy—the Mercury Comet "6." For extra resale value, too, Mercury Comet leads all the compacts!

2. New standard-size Mercury METEOR. A top performer thanks to Meteor's balance of size, weight, and power. Three great engines: gas-stretching Meteor "6," 221 V-8, and hot new 260 V-8. Big-car features at compact prices — more than half of all compact models are priced above the Meteor 2-door sedan.

3. The big Mercury MONTEREY. Here's sizzle enough to warm the heart of any man. Up to 405 horsepower if you like. Your choice of five sizes: a Monterey "6," a 292 V-8, a 352 V-8, a 390 V-8, and a magnificent all-new mile-melting Mercury Marauder 406—the most advanced V-8 engine in America.

2. Special Notice

"Talk About Discounts!"

Just eight years ago we started selling all fast moving parts at great discounts.

During this time with the aid of the International Harvester Company, we have saved the farmers of Pickaway County over $48,000.00. At the same time we have become one of the largest parts depot and implement service centers in the state. Maybe, you too, should check our prices.

HEADING FOR FIVE IN ROW—Winner of four straight Big Eight conference titles, the Kansas State Wildcats, coached by Tex Winter, are on their way to another. Ranked fourth in the nation, the Wildcats have a record of 14-2. Mike Wroblewski, 6'8" center, is the team's leading scorer with an 18-point average. (Central Press)

College Basketball Heads Into Tell-Tale Part of Card

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

College basketball heads into its last five weeks tonight, the final third of the season. It's the time when conference competitions have turned into real races, when the elite among the independents begin to show, when a single mistake can wreck a team's record.

With only a couple of exceptions the major conferences are having tight title scraps that show every indication of going down to the wire.

Big Ten—Mighty Ohio State has beaten everybody in sight, including Northwestern 97-61 Saturday night, but hasn't been able to shake off dogged Wisconsin. The Buckeyes are 6-0, the Badgers 5-0 with a head-on meeting not on tap until March 3 at Wisconsin. Wisconsin beat Minnesota Saturday, 94-88.

Missouri Valley—Bradley (7-1), Cincinnati (6-2) and Wichita (5-2) aren't likely to settle their three-way fight until late this month when Bradley and Wichita take on the Bearcats in back-to-back games at Cincinnati. Saturday night it was Cincinnati 77, North Texas 50 and Bradley 72, St. Louis 57.

Big Eight—Colorado (5-0) has beaten Kansas State (5-1) once and they next tangle on State's floor March 3. The Buffaloes whipped Oklahoma State 51-39 Saturday night and K-State downed Nebraska 72-53.

Southeastern—Kentucky (7-0) far ahead, trailed by Tulane (3-0) and Mississippi State (5-1). Mississippi State plays at Tulane tonight, and both these contenders have games at Kentucky later. Mississippi State beat Louisiana State 87-66 and Tulane swamped Mississippi 107-77 Saturday.

Atlantic Coast—Duke (7-1) protected its lead by trimming North Carolina (79-57) Saturday while Wake Forest (6-2) moved into second with a 83-82 decision over Clemson. This conference has a post season tournament to decide its champion and representative in the NCAA tourney.

Southern—West Virginia (10-1), again the class of the league, went non-conference Saturday and shaded North Carolina State in overtime 82-81. The Mountaineers were knocked out in last year's season-end conference tourney.

but don't look for it to happen again.

Skyline—Colorado State University (7-1) stormed into the lead by stunning Utah (6-1) 74-59 Saturday night, while Utah State (6-1) edged Denver 83-79 in overtime. With Utah out of post season play because of an NCAA penalty, the Utah State game at CSU probably is the title key.

Big Five—UCLA (4-0) upended nationally ranked Southern California (3-2) Friday night 73-59 and has a home-and-home series against the Trojans weekend after next. The pressure is on USC.

Southwest—A scramble as usual

Home Clubs Gain Edge in NBA Contests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was a right nice weekend for the home boys in the National Basketball Association. Four games were played Saturday and four Sunday with the home clubs winning six.

The St. Louis Hawks were the only home losers, dropping a 127-124 decision to the Los Angeles Lakers Saturday and a 121-113 encounter to the Pistons at Detroit Sunday.

Philadelphia, winner of 10 of its last 12 games, split a pair with Syracuse, losing 134-112 on the Nats' court Saturday and winning 128-117 at home Sunday. Boston's division leading Celtics downed New York 130-114 in a home game Sunday. The Knicks, however, won at home Saturday, beating the Cincinnati Royals 121-110. The Packers surprised the Lakers Sunday, winning 113-105 at Chicago.

Wilt Chamberlain hit 50 points or more for the 39th time this season in Sunday's foul-filled game with the Nats. The 50 points upped his total for 60 games to 2,980.

Bob Leonard scoring 18 of his 24 points in the second half, sparked the Packers to their upset of the Lakers. Gene Shue came through with 30 points and Don Ohl with 25 as the Pistons tightened their hold on third place in the Western Division.

College Basketball Heads Into Tell-Tale Part of Card

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
College basketball heads into its last five weeks tonight, the final third of the season. It's the time when conference competitions have turned into real races, when the elite among the independents begin to show, when a single mistake can wreck a team's record.

With only a couple of exceptions the major conferences are having tight title scraps that show every indication of going down to the wire.

Big Ten—Mighty Ohio State has beaten everybody in sight, including Northwestern 97-61 Saturday night, but hasn't been able to shake off dogged Wisconsin. The Buckeyes are 6-0, the Badgers 5-0 with a head-on meeting not on tap until March 3 at Wisconsin. Wisconsin beat Minnesota Saturday, 94-88.

Missouri Valley—Bradley (7-1), Cincinnati (6-2) and Wichita (5-2) aren't likely to settle their three-way fight until late this month when Bradley and Wichita take on the Bearcats in back-to-back games at Cincinnati. Saturday night it was Cincinnati 77, North Texas 50 and Bradley 72, St. Louis 57.

Big Eight—Colorado (5-0) has beaten Kansas State (5-1) once and they next tangle on Saturday floor March 3. The Buffaloes whipped Oklahoma State 54-39 Saturday night and K-State downed Nebraska 72-53.

Southeastern—Kentucky (7-0) far ahead, trailed by Tulane (3-0) and Mississippi State (5-1). Mississippi State plays at Tulane tonight, and both these contenders have games at Kentucky later. Mississippi State beat Louisiana State 87-66 and Tulane swamped Mississippi 107-77 Saturday.

Atlantic Coast—Duke (7-1) protected its lead by trimming North Carolina (79-57) Saturday while Wake Forest (6-2) moved into second with a 83-82 decision over Clemson. This conference has a post season tournament to decide its champion and representative in the NCAA tourney.

Southern—West Virginia (10-1), again the class of the league, went non-conference Saturday and shaded North Carolina State in overtime 82-81. The Mountaineers were knocked out in last year's season-end conference tourney.

but don't look for it to happen again. Skyline—Colorado State University (7-1) stormed into the lead by stunning Utah (6-1) 74-59 Saturday night, while Utah State (6-1) edged Denver 83-79 in overtime. Big Five—UCLA (4-0) upended nationally ranked Southern California (3-2) Friday night 73-59 and has a home-and-home series against the Trojans weekend after next. The pressure is on USC. Southwest—A scramble as usual with Texas Tech (5-1), Texas A&M and Rice (both 4-2) and a couple of others right behind. Texas Tech kept in front by clipping Arkansas 66-64 Saturday night.

Ivy League—Cornell got toppled by Dartmouth 60-58 and Yale squeezed by Princeton 80-78 in overtime, leaving the Big Red and the Eli tied at 5-1. Each has eight conference games left, including two between themselves.

Ohio Valley—Western Kentucky (5-1) holds one victory over runnerup Morehead (6-2) and they'll play again Feb. 19. Morehead smothered East Tennessee 96-67 Saturday night, while Western Kentucky took an 86-78 licking by DePaul out of the conference.

WCAC—Loyola (3-0), St. Mary's (2-0) and Pepperdine (2-1), none active in the conference Saturday, have a flock of games among themselves before the schedule's over.

Yankee—Massachusetts (3-1) tightened things up by upsetting Rhode Island (4-1) 77-69 Saturday night. They square off again Tuesday night.

Mid-American—Bowling Green (7-0) routed Miami (Ohio) 94-61 Saturday night, has beaten every club in the conference at least once, and appears the powerhouse of the league.

Border—Another apparent runaway for Arizona State University (5-0). The Sun Devils have only three conference games left, including one at home against New Mexico State tonight. They beat Texas Western 68-62 Saturday.

Mid-Atlantic—Delaware (5-0), Lafayette (4-0) and St. Joseph's (4-0) in a logjam at the top, each with one game against the other, starting Saturday night with St. Joe's at Delaware.

There is a moderately long list of leading independents but only Duquesne (16-2) is ranked, listed No. 7 nationally. The Dukes did not hurt themselves with a 99-43 romp Saturday night over St. Francis (N.Y.).

GOP Leader Rips DiSalle's Fiscal Policy

CLEVELAND (AP) — Roger Cloud, Republican speaker of the Ohio House, attacked Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's fiscal policies in a speech to the Ohio Hardware Association and said he did not think the state's fiscal affairs had been managed well.

But Cloud insisted Ohio is not on the edge of fiscal chaos, and said those who picture it so are unjustly harming the state's reputation.

Cloud told the OHA dinner Sunday night the degree of spending advocated by the Democratic governor throughout 1961 "cannot be covered by closing a few tax 'loopholes' as the governor now suggests."

"Whatever the justifications for the much higher spending level, it cannot be financed except by a considerable expansion of the tax field or a raising of the rates of existing taxes. Why Gov. DiSalle has suddenly shifted his position with respect to this question is difficult to understand."

Cloud, a frequent critic of DiSalle's policies, said there was no basis for the governor's claim that the Republican-controlled legislature failed to provide adequate financing even for appropriated amounts. For years, he said, "there has been available to any governor the expedient of marking up the liquor margin (at state liquor stores) to a maximum of 30 per cent above costs."

Cloud was introduced by OHA President G. Clair Zimmerman of Fremont.

Saigon Residents Live under Stage of Siege

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Most of the two million residents of this big Asian capital city are living, in effect, in a state of siege. This is one of the grimmest aspects of the Civil war in South

Viet Nam, the southeast Asian nation the United States is committed to defend. You can take a plane to Tokyo or San Francisco if you have the price of a ticket but you can't Saigon by car, bus, train or bicycle without taking your life into your hands.

Thousands of people still do, mostly by bus, they face the ever-present threat of ambush by communist guerrillas infesting the countryside.

On the surface, except for American and Vietnamese soldiers on the streets, Saigon does not look much like the capital of a nation at war. The people strolling its peaceful, tree-lined boulevards show little evidence of the tension of a besieged city.

But ordinary Vietnamese you talk to in cafes, shops and offices say the siege of Saigon is the aspect of the civil war that hits them hardest.

It means families split apart, livelihoods threatened, a growing sense of anxiety, insecurity and fear.

No army formations encircle Saigon, but the communists have come close to achieving the same effect by means much more insidious and economical.

All roads leading out of Saigon are subject to mining, ambush and sabotage by the Viet Cong. Many of them are completely under Viet Cong control.

In the last six weeks an American civil engineer, two U. S. soldiers, a French priest, two French planters, a Japanese engineer and scores of Vietnamese government officials, soldiers and civilians have been killed, wounded or kidnapped in road ambushes, some of them a few minutes drive out of Saigon.

Twelve Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 25 wounded within 48 hours in separate ambushes, all within 25 miles of Saigon.

Roads are mined, bridges blown up and Viet Cong guerrillas fire indiscriminately on passing traffic from roadside cover. Public buses and private automobiles have been attacked and their occupants robbed, murdered or kidnapped barely beyond the city's outskirts.

THEY INHERIT A $25,000 KITTY—The Illinois attorney general's office is wrestling with the problem of these five cats inheriting $25,000 from the estate of wealthy Chicagoan Margaret Theresa Montgomery. Initiation Ritual of Days Past Scheduled Tuesday by BPO Elks

The ritual of initiation, as exemplified 40 years ago, will be presented in Circleville BPO Elks Lodge Tuesday evening.

James Grant, exalted ruler of the lodge, said a class of five candidates will be initiated by a corps of past exalted rulers.

During the same ceremony, three members of the lodge will be honored for 50-year memberships. They are Ralph Curtin, Link Mader and A. W. Phillips. Ben Gordon will be honored for 35 years of membership.

Grant said Paul Betz is heading a committee of the past exalted rulers who will put on the initiation which will hark back to "the old days" in the Elks lodge. Many changes and eliminations have been made in the ritual in recent years. But Tuesday night's ceremony will follow customs prevalent about the time of World War I, Betz reported.

BETZ said that "in the old days, as many as three officers of the lodge would handle roles now assigned solely to the exalted ruler. Tuesday night, we will divide the work between two past exalted rulers."

He reported that I. Lutz May, one of the oldest past exalted rulers of the local order, will administer the obligation to the candidates. Judge William D. Radcliff will be assigned the balance of exalted ruler's duties.

Among other PERs who will have roles in the ceremony are Betz, Pat Yates, Andrew Thomas, Leland Pontius, Gunner Musselman and Dr. David Goldschmidt. Richard Plum will serve as organist.

Grant said the ceremony is scheduled for 8 p. m. It will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30.

The Plains Drops Tilt to Miami Trace

A small but fast Miami Trace cage team downed the Plains of Mt. Sterling 74-51 Saturday night at Miami Trace.

The Blue Devils, down 17-8 in the first period, 33-18 at halftime and 61-34 at the end of the third quarter, were unable to get an effective attack going. Little Mike Crawford led the way for the Plains with a total of 14 points for the game.

Bob Hatfield, scoring most of his 15 points in the second half and Don Stanley with 14 paced the balanced Miami Trace team to their victory.

Miami Trace made it a pair of wins by taking the reserve tilt 40-25.

The Blue Devils next game is with Madison South Friday night at Mt. Sterling. If the Plains can cop this one they will cinch a tie for themselves in Madison County League play.

Braves Crush Carroll Cagers For 13th Win

Logan Elm outclassed Carroll 63-52 Saturday night on the Fairfield Courtians court.

Bob Parker came off the bench early in the game for the Braves and connected on nine of 11 field goal attempts and two charity tosses to garner a total of 20 points, his high for the season.

Jump shot artist, Chuck Spangler hit for 17 points as the Logan Elm cagers poured in a blistering 51 per cent of their attempts from the field.

Carroll, a young team with four sophomores in the starting lineup, trailed by only three points at halftime, but was unable to keep up with the balanced Braves as they were outscored 34-17. Woolever, a sophomore, was high man for the night, dunking 22 points with an effective jump shot.

THE Logan Elm reserves made a clean slate for the night, taking their game 41-36.

Friday night the Braves entertain Amanda-Clearcreek as they go after their 14th win of the season against two losses.

Saigon Residents Live under Stage of Siege

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Most of the two million residents of this big Asian capital city are living, in effect, in a state of siege. This is one of the grimmest aspects of the Civil war in South

Viet Nam, the southeast Asian nation the United States is committed to defend. You can take a plane to Tokyo or San Francisco if you have the price of a ticket but you can't Saigon by car, bus, train or bicycle without taking your life into your hands.

Thousands of people still do, mostly by bus, they face the ever-present threat of ambush by communist guerrillas infesting the countryside.

On the surface, except for American and Vietnamese soldiers on the streets, Saigon does not look much like the capital of a nation at war. The people strolling its peaceful, tree-lined boulevards show little evidence of the tension of a besieged city.

But ordinary Vietnamese you talk to in cafes, shops and offices say the siege of Saigon is the aspect of the civil war that hits them hardest.

It means families split apart, livelihoods threatened, a growing sense of anxiety, insecurity and fear.

No army formations encircle Saigon, but the communists have come close to achieving the same effect by means much more insidious and economical.

All roads leading out of Saigon are subject to mining, ambush and sabotage by the Viet Cong. Many of them are completely under Viet Cong control.

In the last six weeks an American civil engineer, two U. S. soldiers, a French priest, two French planters, a Japanese engineer and scores of Vietnamese government officials, soldiers and civilians have been killed, wounded or kidnapped in road ambushes, some of them a few minutes drive out of Saigon.

Twelve Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 25 wounded within 48 hours in separate ambushes, all within 25 miles of Saigon.

Roads are mined, bridges blown up and Viet Cong guerrillas fire indiscriminately on passing traffic from roadside cover.

Public buses and private automobiles have been attacked and their occupants robbed, murdered or kidnapped barely beyond the city's outskirts.

Initiation Ritual of Days Past Scheduled Tuesday by BPO Elks

The ritual of initiation, as exemplified 40 years ago, will be presented in Circleville BPO Elks Lodge Tuesday evening.

James Grant, exalted ruler of the lodge, said a class of five candidates will be initiated by a corps of past exalted rulers.

During the same ceremony, three members of the lodge will be honored for 50-year memberships. They are Ralph Curtin, Link Mader and A. W. Phillips. Ben Gordon will be honored for 35 years of membership.

Grant said Paul Betz is heading a committee of the past exalted rulers who will put on the initiation which will hark back to "the old days" in the Elks lodge. Many changes and eliminations have been made in the ritual in recent years. But Tuesday night's ceremony will follow customs prevalent about the time of World War I, Betz reported.

BETZ said that "in the old days, as many as three officers of the lodge would handle roles now assigned solely to the exalted ruler. Tuesday night, we will divide the work between two past exalted rulers."

He reported that I. Lutz May, one of the oldest past exalted rulers of the local order, will administer the obligation to the candidates. Judge William D. Radcliff will be assigned the balance of exalted ruler's duties.

Among other PERs who will have roles in the ceremony are Betz, Pat Yates, Andrew Thomas, Leland Pontius, Gunner Musselman and Dr. David Goldschmidt. Richard Plum will serve as organist.

Grant said the ceremony is scheduled for 8 p. m. It will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30.

The Plains Drops Tilt to Miami Trace

A small but fast Miami Trace cage team downed the Plains of Mt. Sterling 74-51 Saturday night at Miami Trace.

The Blue Devils, down 17-8 in the first period, 33-18 at halftime and 61-34 at the end of the third quarter, were unable to get an effective attack going. Little Mike Crawford led the way for the Plains with a total of 14 points for the game.

Bob Hatfield, scoring most of his 15 points in the second half and Don Stanley with 14 paced the balanced Miami Trace team to their victory.

Miami Trace made it a pair of wins by taking the reserve tilt 40-25.

The Blue Devils next game is with Madison South Friday night at Mt. Sterling. If the Plains can cop this one they will cinch a tie for themselves in Madison County League play.

Braves Crush Carroll Cagers For 13th Win

Logan Elm outclassed Carroll 63-52 Saturday night on the Fairfield Courtians court.

Bob Parker came off the bench early in the game for the Braves and connected on nine of 11 field goal attempts and two charity tosses to garner a total of 20 points, his high for the season.

Jump shot artist, Chuck Spangler hit for 17 points as the Logan Elm cagers poured in a blistering 51 per cent of their attempts from the field.

Carroll, a young team with four sophomores in the starting lineup, trailed by only three points at half-time, but was unable to keep up with the balanced Braves as they were outscored 34-17. Woolever, a sophomore, was high man for the night, dunking 22 points with an effective jump shot.

THE Logan Elm reserves made a clean slate for the night, taking their game 41-36.

Friday night the Braves entertain Amanda-Clearcreek as they go after their 14th win of the season against two losses.

WHERE'S MISSOURI?—Former President Harry S. Truman and his wife, Bess, take a walk on the still-unpaved "Truman Walk" at the site of the 1964-65 World's Fair in New York City. After noticing there was no special Missouri exhibit in a model of the fair, he said, "We'll have to do something about this."
